The pinnacle of technical death metal.

There's this band Gojira I know a little that is considered technical death metal and they are highly praised. I listened to it a bit and I couldn't get into the vocals right now so I decided to push it back for later. I do remember the first song I heard by them liking it, though.

They're also progressive metal and groove metal, so probably specific albums fit into the technical death metal realm.

....Or a bunch of albums mix all 3.

I HAVE TO FIND THE WHALES

Currently listening to nothing, by, uh, no one.

If nothing exists, where did this anger come from?
