Pulled over by highway patrol and made to pay a hefty fine. If you caused anything severe to occur as a result of this, or if it isn't your first time, it's possible that you would face a revocation of your driving license and jail time ranging from 1-15 years.

Going 20km/h over the speed limit.

Very illegal. The fine is 5000 Silvans, and time is a year in state prison. If anything else happened, it is going to be much harsher.

Not illegal

Possessing a firearm without a license and/or proper training.

All NS Stats are canon.

Oh, and I guess you can make up anything else about this nation, like geography and such, based on your own imagination. I don't really plan on writing lore on this nation, at least for now.

Not really a crime, as you don't need a license, and new firearms owners buy a gun so they can learn safety with it.

the most severe punishment of the several committed would be kidnapping, which is death by hanging.

A week of community service, cleaning off the paint, possibly a fine to pay for the cost of the rag and spirits to remove the paint.
Afterwards, possibility of given temporary authority over maintenance crew to order potholes filled. If more capable than current maintenance supervisor, offered his job.

Organizing voluntarily fighting to the death in gladiatorial combat to be livestreamed on the internet?

It's not illegal if it's your own - if it's someone else's probably a short prison sentence (~3 months) and/or a fine for theft and destruction of stolen goods.

Killing a former leader on national television? Basically, what would happen if your nation had a "Shinzo Abe" situation?

Not illegal, but... why? There are no real health benefits to this?

Prison, as per a normal murder. However, the guy who killed Wulfila Davies with a broadsword on-camera did get a pretty harsh sentence...

It's not really illegal unless the diet is harmful to the child, or pet. Child endangerment and/or abuse would get you between 3 - 15 years in prison dependent on the severity. Animal abuse can get you up to 5 and a fine of up to $25,000 (payable to the DSPCA).
