Honestly not sure where you got steampunk from in that. (Pretty sure that armor is more cyberpunk than anything.) Or military parade from, for that matter...

drawn in an anime art style, which has been hideously stretched to make a banner rather than cropped so that it will render the correct proportions. However, I do not recognize the character or their significance; inferring from their prefix, I can only guess the character is from the videogame "Girls Frontline", but that still does not tell me the significance of this character to Advancia-Sizzletown or what that is supposed to mean. I don't know, am I overthinking this? I'm not able to really draw any conclusions from this banner with regards to the nation; I can't even draw any significant conclusions about the user other than maybe that they like the character depicted. Honestly I'm at a loss here, but I hope I was able to at least make a effort.
