Illegal (as polygamy is), viewed as dishonorable actions and punished by heavy fines, forced psychological treatment and several months of light prison.

Not a crime if the tree is within your property. If it's in public property though, it could get you fined if you're doing it without a permit.

If it happens frequently it will put a family under social services surveillance, at the sixth case SCSF will bring the student to school, at the 8th time the SCSF will bring the student to school.

At the 9th case the parents will receive a fine of 22 % of their monthly income, at the 10th 44% and so on until up to 110%

Damaging school property

If the damage is caused maliciously on account of employment by a foreign military or intelligence agency as an act of sabotage, the offender faces immediate execution.

If the damage is caused maliciously for petty criminal reasons, the offender must pay a fine equivalent to 150% of the damage. If the offender cannot pay, he shall either be lashed an amount of times proportional to the damage or hanged if the damage is particularly severe.

Damage determined to be accidental typically results in a slap on the wrist and an admonishment not to repeat the sequence of events that lead to the damage.

Not a crime as burning flags in the Commonwealth (even in protest) is the proper and lawful way to dispose of them (as long as no one or nothing else gets burned in the process).

If they were Aniki's garden, the perpetrator has to pay a fine of 300 bucks (69420 hot loads also) or community service while under the lash of the spanking.

Impersonating a leader with the intent to constructively criticize them not merely for their actions, but as leaders themselves or whatever reason therein?

Whoever is guilty of this (A drunk worker accidentally mixing up buildings or higher ups giving wrong order), he will have to pay the reparations. And if someone was killed or injured, this will result in a sentence with it's length depending on severity of this.

A guy is paid by a restaurnt to secretly put vermin into competing restaurnts during inspection, so they would either pay a hefty fine or be closed or suffer other punishment YNs government imposed for having vermin in restaurnts.

Sky Reavers are retconned Skyhooked. A bunch of crazy, wild everpartying semi-anarchists, who are resistant to cold, heat and diseases, can can process booze like hell. MT/PMT tech. Wanna know more or have a request? It's here: <https://forum.nationstates.net/viewtopic.php?f=23&t=505973>

Remember, the fact, that we are semi-anarchy doesn't mena, that ya' can go around and rob random people. We still got law and order, loose as they are.

First of all, there are little to no businesses and competition in Laka- due to which the restaurants will already be punished for economical disruption. Such actions are threatened for causing extreme harm to public safety, punishable for all contenders with up to 10 years in prison or, in extreme cases, forced suicide/death penalty

Hardly a crime, although you could face charges of assault if you used force against the person that turns out to be innocent. But overall you wouldn't initially get in trouble for it.
