"The plans and schemes of tyrants are broken by many things. They shatter against cliffs of heroic struggle. They rupture on reefs of open resistance. And they are slowly eroded, bit by little bit, on the very beaches where they measure triumph, by countless grains of sand. By the stubborn little decencies of humble little men." -Eric Flint, Belisarius II: In The Heart of Darkness

I can think of so many things that this could work for, even if it may be in weird metaphorical ways for some things. I can see it as a revolution song, or protest song or something, where you're getting over this one hard challenge. I can see it working for my RP characters in various different ways. Having fought hard battles mentally, but just can't get past this one without some serious help (PTSD, depression, trying to fight to get your sister back), and in some cases, your normal methods won't work to solve everything (Words, guns, and muscle), and so on and so forth.

This site stresses me out, so I rarely come on here anymore. I'll try to be civil and respectful towards those I'm debating on here. If you don't extend the same courtesy then I'll probably just ignore you.

If we've been friendly in the past and you want to keep in touch, shoot me a telegram
