"Well, first off, welcome to the multiverse, Volodya! You seem to be the freshest face I've seen my entire stay! Don't look so disappointed in monarchs, some of us are genuinely good people, it's only natural however, that a bad apple somehow spreads and multiplies. You could say the same for Democracies, but that's not what this is about! This is about you! And by the way I see it, you've been doing good so far for a young 20 year old. A good dose of Populism never hurts, so ignore those old politicians saying you're too childish. Never hurts being a little serious though. Anyways, I sure do hope you enjoy your stay, Fresh face!

Liagolas of the Dominion: "It is the estimation of the Dominion that this Judiciary Honourable is akin to the Domain Council which advises this Liagolas. A necessary position of significant responsibility. The Dominion is pleased to see that this Vaskachevo has pushed policy to protect Tanokiana's environment. If the appendage - ah, or body - must have a roof, then the whole, the state, the complete person of the nation must have a sound environment to dwell in. It is rare to see such awareness of the needs of the whole exhibited by an appendage that acts as its own self. However, it is the regret of the Dominion that this Vaskachevo was not satisfied with its service to Tanokiana. The Dominion sees that Vaskachevo felt a need to adopt a 'grandchild' to have for the self. A pity, as now Vaskachevo must yield some time to the grandchild, instead of giving all time to Tanokiana. But the Dominion recognizes that few are the bodies that understand where the self ought to be placed. For now, the Dominion gives its regards to Tanokiana and to its Vaskachevo."

"This... these... whoever they are, I'm not entirely sure how to call them if only because I'm uncertain if I'm addressing a person or a people. They've done a lot to promote 'unity', but I cannot say I agree with the end result. They've conflated homogeneity with unity and the two concepts are different. Take the Caleshan, we may bicker and argue and jockey for position, but in the end we are quick to identify a common cause and unite against it. Our tribes specialize in different things, and we contribute differently, but we use our differences to devastating effect. In only having a single will, you only have a single viewpoint. With only a single viewpoint, there are many blind spots that are left open. It is good that their current 'Dominion' is exploring the idea of diversity, but they have a long way to go." -Cala Windham Hawkeye

After all, traditions are just an idiot thing. But she appears to do so with a surprising zeal, a zeal I'll never understand. But she does all of this within a democratic system, while pledging her support for ideals as peace, diplomacy, and democracy. Peace is a farce. Diplomacy is occasionally useful, but mostly for idiots who care. And democracy is a ridiculous system for idiots who cater to public opinions, where the brain dead rule the nation and decisions are made based on hormonal response. Ugh... I want to hate her, I really do, but the worst I can deliver is a neutral opinion. At least for now."

The Liagolas of the Dominion: "It is the observation of the Dominion that Ghesik's Caller also stepped into the role at a relatively young age due to an unanticipated death. The Dominion offers its... sympathy, in that regard. However, it is the concern of the Dominion that this Caller is not rising to the task the predecessor left behind. The Kiu has become, if anything, less united, instead of more. The 'clan elders' continue to jockey and overrule, and the Caller is respected as a warrior but not as an icon. It is the estimation of the Dominion that Ghesik will inevitably unravel at the seams. It is the destiny of all which would make all bodies dominions unto themselves, rather than consolidate all bodies to a single person, a single dominion. But it is also the guess of the Dominion that this Caller would not want to be Ghesik manifest, nor would be very successful at it. This Caller is too committed to being a dominion unto itself- unto herself. Too committed to being her own dominion, and too unwilling to give herself over completely to Ghesik. Too frightened of what that would mean, perhaps?"

The Fist of the Dominion: "It is the judgment of the Dominion that this Caller is a skilled fighter, but not much else. It was better as a fist, a weapon, wielded by the biological parent, who was better at manifesting Ghesik, if only partially and unconsciously. The Liagolas would do well to see that each appendage must have its place. One cannot take a spleen and make it a nose, or a fist and make it a brain."

But Kamile, she ensured, that no warrior under her command would fall in battle. A clear sign of great prowess. After that, she took the reign and defeated even greater foe - the corruption. And now, she watches Remulia, and still bears mental wounds. Such wounds are invisible, and yet, they are hardest to heal. May she not live in anguish, for her fallen comrades are still with her, as long as she remembers them. 'People' of his 'ideology' (which never existed in the first place) don't seem to understand that freedom is slavery, and slavery is freedom. All the 'liberties' the Overboss advocates for never existed in the first place and to believe otherwise is crimethink. The only way of life is that of a hypertotalitarian state which uses extreme regimentation over every facet of life and enforces extreme spartanism. Not an 'anarchy' with 'drugs', 'lgbt rights', 'choice' and other crimethink nonsense which the party would like to inform you never existed."

"Truly, this monstrosity leaves me more than a little green. Is there no limit to the layers of depredation that this fiend would perpetrate? I am given the impression that this creature lives in some kind of fantastical swamp, where all of the ugliness of the world serves only to satisfy his jaded view of reality. I admit that at first I thought this was all some kind of joke, but then I saw his face. Truly, that is the visage of one who believes in the horrors he brings about..." -Cala Windham Hawkeye, wondering why everyone is rolling their eyes and chuckling

Godulan Puppet #2, RPing as technologically advanced tribal society founded by mongols and vikings (and later with multiple other Asian and Native American cultures) motivated by an intrinsic devotion to the spirit of competition. They'll walk softly, talk softly, and make soothing noises as they stab you in the back and take your stuff... unless you're another Caleshan, whereupon they'll only stab you in the back figuratively!

Used NS stats: Population. That's it. Anything else not stated in the factbooks is not used.

I like the tribes, they have a honorable culture with fair beliefs. As for this man he seems to be a modest soul, one that lightens those around him much like a bard. And while I do disagree with his thoughts such as a sword besting a blade, even if it wasn't meant to be a physical comparison. Some lands can be ruthless, I've seen nations open arms to just get slaughtered by some gang of multiverseal pirates. Or those that decide to pillage rather than be reasonable and offer something in return of another.

For some its far easier to take rather than ask or even earn. I guess that's why this nation is cautious of friends and foe, but we don't fear either, sometimes trying to befriend both.

Cala must surely know that, but im curious as to how his sly tactics and smooth talk has got him around, surely he has to be skilled."-Luden

Something must surely be wrong.

[Factbook is always rework in progress]

We dont use NS stats here.

Am I too active on some threads, probably, sorrynotsorry!

"What is there to say about Luden? He's a non-controversial man that only wants to be left alone and not cause a ruckus. Pretty respectable and admired for those who desire to have such a life."
