All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

The End of Science-The Sun Rains Down When You're Not Looking.

This is when Spotify comes in handy. Song on Spotify, but not on YouTube. So I get to discover a neat song when finding the name of a band, that is so unknown it's not even on YouTube apparently.

Also, this band has the best album name, "OMGWTFBQQ", which totally made me want to listen to it because of my nerdy side kicking in.

I just started using Spotify today. I wouldn't rely solely on it; I'd rather use all of my internet music resources to choose my music from.

I don't really. I use other things to find more music (these discussions), though I could really use some more suggestions for finding more music....because I totally need more Spotify playlists, y'know?

Uh, but Spotify didn't have some of the music I wanted to listen to. So I can't listen to what I want to on it, sometimes.

Same here. Depends what bands do and don't want their albums on there. The Black Keys refused to have their new album on there. Steven Wilson has nothing of his solo work on there. Only 3 Porcupine Tree albums on there. That sort.
