Much in spite of changing beliefs and mores amongst the populace at large, Intermarium retains an ecclesiastical parallel court system for those who wish justice to be conducted through religious channels. Very interesting, and very true to the region to have such an institution survive out of institutional inertia.

In Neonymphonia, the activity of dancing is very widely-encompassing, and includes a wide variety of situations under which it is performed. Competitive dancing in particular is very prevalent in Neonymphonia, this being what gives dancing its sportier element, and even this subtype of competitive dance has many, many permutations.

Hope this helps clarify 😊

Ah. Is there some sort of national competitive dancing competition? If so, how popular is it in the nation? What other sports are popular?

Yes, and you'll notice that the polls consistently showed a victory for the NO vote. The reason YES won was because many assumed it was going to lose and stayed home, leading to low turnout. The Prime Minister himself, who endorsed the NO vote, even "forgot" to vote on the referendum.

Indeed; while group dancing, competitive and otherwise, is largely a localized activity, every time two Viospheres meet their populations intermingle, which includes dancing among their activities. Every five years, when all Viospheres come together, something resembling a proper national event involving dancing of all forms is incorporated into the festivals that take place. While televised spectator sports aren't as prevalent in Neonymphonia as elsewhere, this festival even is indeed watched by a significant number of Nymphonians as it occurs.

As for other sports and such physical activities practices in Neonymphonia, all the info I can provide thus far is in my factbook under the relevant section 😊
