Asleep, The Smiths.

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

Ben Frost-The Carpathians.

This whole album is very ominous.....I love it.

Cult of Luna's first album. Currently at second track called "Hollow". I love that wall of sound.

Hey, don't be talking about my future wife like that ☐

Her music's not bad. I find her music much more palatable than most Pop artists.

Sorry, I believe Justin Bieber already stole her from you.

Well, right now, I'm watching a vid on youtube of Muse's 2nd Law album live in a concert in cologne.

^This now. Thanks!

So I'm not the only one on here who's actually looking forward to their new album, then? So far I'm impressed with it, because they seem to be evolving still, and a lot of songs sound rather different from each other. Yeah, the 'Dubstep' song of theirs has gotten a lot of crap. I've liked it from the beginning. Now if it wasn't played in instruments, I probably wouldn't of liked it as much.

The people who say they are 'selling out' really need to go look up the definition of selling out. The definition of selling out is pretty much exactly what they WANT Muse to do, not what they are doing.

that's incredibly vain.

how it's made should make absolutely no difference and if you care you're as bad as people who listen for technical proficiency i'm sorry, how is hopping on the back of a currently trending EDM subgenre not selling out?

Well, I should say, I give them more credit for playing it on instruments then just going all electronic with it.

Both me and my dad consider 'selling out' being where you sound almost exactly the same every album, not when you put something out that will possibly annihilate your fanbase.

Besides, that's ONE song, and the rest of what I've heard is completely different from the 'Dubstep' song.

And I already know we won't agree when it comes to Muse anyway, so this debate is probably pointless.

Still the same.

Yeah nice song. Today I'm listening to a nice combo of Nightwish, Tarja, Muse and Porcupine Tree, a song from one band/artist then a different one.

Oh, and there's a Polish heavy metal band called Witchking that ain't that bad.

Finished listening to Cult of Luna's first album, called Cult of Luna. Giving score of 98 out of 100.

Now: "Fighting the World" by Manowar

Then off to bed.
