"titled as a president, yet he behaves entirely like a dictator with a huge power trip. What erks me more is that he is willing to kill for it, no sympathy for the people he rules. perhaps he should put himself in the shoes of innocents who he slaughters just for that, but i doubt that icy heart of his would even feel anything. there is very little i can point out that is actually good about him, but i will admire him putting his country first, as all leaders should. but aside from that, i see little else. as much as i try to get along with other leaders, i have a feeling that i can already see his views on me as very negative because i actually provide the freedoms and care for the wellbeing of my own people... He is welcome to prove me wrong about the unwillingness to work with me, otherwise, i remain wary of him..."

"I personally believe Sera is a changed person. Before she used to be the archetypal red menace, forcing people to have to toil for the government. Now, I can see she has allowed small-scale private enterprise, allowing people to eke out a living for themselves, all within the framework of a liberal autocracy, which in itself is peculiar to say the least, but it's better than the nazbol shit going on in North Korea. I think her change in mindset marks a new phase in Delto-Platinian relations, and we would be happy to co-operate with her in the future on a range of things. In fact, we should start a scientific co-operation program. She could improve if perhaps she allowed small corporations to function, which would greatly improve the standard of living. I do believe her pacifism is a scourge, as war allows for the progress of technology and the enriching of your nation. Encourage wars, so as to be the next Basil Zaharoff, a great role-model."

"I appreciate his reference to my motto about personal health and abiding to the laws of war; we can achieve great things when we all work together, and sadly there are leaders who do not share the same mindset as others and myself who are in pursuit of peace. Concerning President La Salles, he is an inventive genius in the professional world of public works. And me wanting to encourage others to have a healthy attitude of oneself, self-deprecation is a discouraging factor to a person's self-confidence, even if one says they are just joking about looking down on their own self. I can provide one advice to him: true happiness is having close acquaintanceship with friends and family; it will boost his self-confidence and it will also boost his immune system."

"For the longest time that I have known of the inhabitants in Valentine Z is that no matter where one goes, there is always a smile to be seen on the faces of the people who live in that unique world. Valentijn, a particularly prominent figure in all of VZ, and though with all his personal flaws, is positively received by my countrymen including myself. Powerful as a fighter but everyone knows of his gentle demeanour very well. And minus the radiation, I can say, without a doubt, Valentijn is quite possibly the most healthiest of all peoples from his circle of best friends to his optimist view on life and the future. Perhaps...if all sorts of people put aside their own beliefs and hatred, the world might probably be devoid of war."

Huh, so here he is - the great king who got back Carthage for the Gallo-Phoenicians, and thus made himself both a devil and hero to thousands, from leaders to the bottom of the layer of society which opinions will never reach the upper echelons. That said, I do remember what you said about me some time ago, and while I wouldn't call you a luddite, I have a feeling that he is one of those which would jump on the bandwagon of "anti-GMO" hysteria, or whatever the millennials find trending today. And no, I am not using it as a blanket term, but for the generation you are born in specifically.

*Private school education? But of course! I just wanted to wonder if you could handle the pressure from others if you went to public school like everyone else. I know that this sounds funny from a supercomputer who had his knowledge thrown in by OS upgrades (and personality modeled by how people thought he would react), but still... His service career in army is pretty generic, and so is the coronation. And no, I am not sh*tting on you for being a royal, I am just saying that it is conventional and does not stand out in any way. From one side I could commend him for successfully de-escalating the tensions, but from other side I still stand with the conservatives more in that certain regard... At least he pays some of his revenue in taxes despite not being required so, it shows that he has a good moral standing in some way.*

"Sensitive about your height, huh? Well, we could help you with that if'n you're amenable to an exchange of certain commodities. Barring that potential issue, I think you're pretty damn fine. And no, I do not mean physically. We're shapeshifters, why would I care about outward appearances? No, it's your hobbies with a focus on meditative aesthetics. I'd like to know more about 'em on a wholly professional level." -Kal'Shazzar
