Show Spoiler

Did you ever hear the Tragedy of Monke 1631 the Wise? I thought not. It's not a story the humans would tell you. It's a Monke legend. Monke 1631 was a Monke Lord of the Monkes, so powerful and wise he could use coconuts to influence unladen swallows to become laden...he had such a knowledge of the sparrows that he could even keep the ones he cared about from becoming unladen. The Monke side of the coconuts is a pathway to many abilities some consider to be unnatural. He became so powerful...the only thing he was afraid of losing was his power, which eventually, of course, he did. Unfortunately, he taught his apprentice everything he knew, then his apprentice stole his coconuts. Ironic. He could save others from becoming unladen from coconuts, but not himself.

Monkey 1624 was secretly replaced by a lookalike, Monkey 1623. Alphonse ate him as a prank.

Monkey 1621 drank too much pineapple juice, got deadbeat drunk and attempted to steal a motorcycle from a gerbil. The gerbil then went into labor, but not because it was giving birth to gerbil babies, but it was giving birth to terrorists, who then proceeded to strangle the Monkey 1621 until he finally perished.

Monkey 1620 was on a ship, heading for Plymouth, Massachusetts. Due to the conditions he died. Yet he is not called a pilgrim.
