I need to find something to do on my computer apparently because I appear to be getting sick of just sitting here listening to music for hours without doing much else the last few days.

Be bap bop. It's not even movie music, just a random song played by a band in a film. I just can't stop listening to it, if you catch my drift

To clearly present my obvious interlectual superiority*, here's my signature:

*Note irony

"Any man's death diminishes me because I am involved in mankind; and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee. . . ."

-John Donne

I'll just leave this here:

"Given the opportunity, wealthier participants took twice as much candy from children as poorer participants. "

Hammock-I Can Almost See You

I know some songs from this album already. Time to go through another one of Hammock's rather large albums (As in, 18 songs). Last big one I did was an hour and 50 minutes long.

This album is only 75 minutes long! So not as long as the other 110 minute one. Must be shorter songs since the other one I think had the same amount or less songs....

Edit: It has 1 more then this one

Hammock-Raising Your Voice...Trying To Stop An Echo

Edit: I only have 4 big ass albums left to go through from this band!

Same with the last songs "Such a cold place that you live in", which my brain thought of as a metaphor for her depression.

It will fit even more appropriately after I do one of my next major ideas.

I really do like the long post-rock song names. And the bizarre math rock ones.

One of my 11/10 songs.

It is very rare that I would ever rate something a 10 (Or 11) with any form of entertainment, but there are definitely exceptions.

I'm just rather critical with things now, which I don't really find to be a bad thing.

Like some of these bands I've gone through I'd probably only rate a 6/10. I'd probably never buy an album by them because I have so many other priorities to buy but that doesn't mean it isn't enjoyable.

my random post of the day.

So far I have... three I can rate 10-11. I'm working on the list. I'm critical too which is why I had to scrap my list of over twenty songs with only three remaining.
