Strongly encouraged. Najaira recognise only temporary, functional authority of persons and subject everything and everyone to criticism and ridicule. Insults to persons are only reported or prosecuted in the most exceptional cases. Protection of supernatural beings against criticism and insult is completely alien to them.

OK, I'll stop monopolizing the thread now.

If the kitten is a pet that means it's a property and to leave someone's property to die means destruction of property. If the kitten is a stray kitten nobody cares "_(_)/" except if there are good-samaritans. 7 years in prison by minimum not including charges by the property owner.

Ninja'd.

AAN:

Taking that too seriously would be seen as a sign of weakness on the part of the momentary leader.

AN:

There is no real religious authority that would be worth it, but corruption as such tends to be punished rather severely. Usually by imprisonment and long-term exclusion from public office.

If the later, its not a crime if you did it because for instance you were stranded somewhere with no food and would have died otherwise.

Fine equivalent to 5 times the damage that has been done or forced labour if person is too poor to pay for damages. And if someone died during it then he gets additional 5 years in forced labour.

Stealing something really minor like a single fry.
