But it's a good song, with captivating lyrics.

Your nation is like a son. What it does right is your merit, as well as what it does wrong is your fault. When you praise it, be lucid and avoid exaggeration. Praising it too much can make it indolent. On the other hand, when you criticize it, be harsh, but do not ridicule it. Do your best to improve it, not through derision or disdain, but through good examples and dedication.

This songs almost better live. I don't say that very often.

There are plenty of songs good live but I rarely listen to live stuff because it is usually filmed in bad quality. But when it is done right, a lot of songs I know are great live. But not technically better then the recorded version.

Of course, actually being there when things are played live is probably way better then listening to any recorded version.

Neurosis-Eye

This vocal style doesn't even seem to bother me much anymore. I guess listening to Baroness, Mastodon, and Gojira were enough to get me pretty much used to the style.

I prefer "ANGRY ROAR!" vocals over "COOOOKIIIEEE!" vocals.

Sludge metal doom metal industrial metal mix?

Even I, who thinks of post-metal as a realistic genre in some ways, refuses to call this post-metal so far despite the label. In fact, I can see the argument against post-metal being realistic a lot of times. Sometimes I think it more sounds like sludge metal or something.

But still, things like Russian Circles and Jesu I think fit the profile in some ways.
