While it has not been an isolationist nation like in IRL, it seems to have never undergone the period of rapid militaristic expansion, like the invasion of Korea. It would seem as though that their WWII also wasn't as hard on them as the IRL Japan.

"There are 8 major parties in Nacrad, the Majority Party being the Social Democrat Party whose leader is Matthew Y. Smith, who is also the President of Nacrad.

The other parties would be the Liberal Party, the Green Party, the Conservative Party, the National Congress for Prosperity, the National Veterans League, Libertarian League, and... the Communist Party."

First, I learned that the way Jedi dodge and bounce back laser bolts is entirely unrealistic. Alas, a shadow cast on precious childhood memories!

Second, I also learned that the Comerciante universe has invented a weapon technology called Partide Beam Weaponry. The "gun" has to be the size of a house, but its effects are even worse than nuclear bombs and nuclear radiation. Thankfully, the international community has almost universally banned, dismantled, and disavowed the technology... except Comerciante, probably, which I guess says a lot about the kind of regime they have.

All of their factbooks are written in English, but this reply alone would far too low effort to justify me posting it compared to the effort they had to put into writing this English conlang. In addition, Gunhilda III hated the Spanish so much that she plundered the coasts of Hispania and then sent someone else to go on a voyage to plunder not only Spain, but their holdings in the New World as well. Impressive. Talk about a rampage.

Though this isn't directly in the factbook, there was a Wikipedia link where I learned that the National Redemption Party's founder is actually a real person (though in real life he's dead and didn't found the NRP; though he was the leader of the American Nazi Party). I also learned that esoteric Nazi mysticism is apparently a real thing, with a whole Wikipedia article? Dang, I thought that kind of esoteric mysticism was just in Raider's of the Lost Ark.

Also, I've gotta wonder what language the Remnants use to talk about Abrahamic religion. It seems like it can't be that they say "We hate Abrahamic religion" when the president's given name is Abraham. Though I do appreciate the narrative irony of Miller's given name.

I was thinking that Miller's father just randomly slapped on the name of a previous President onto his son's name, completely ignorant of not only that it was the name of a religious prophet, but also the name of the President that issued the Emancipation Proclamation. Double irony, you could say? That's what extreme historical revisionism does, after all.

But yes, Esoteric Nazism is real, and not only is it real, but it's also incredibly bizarre. You'll get Ancient Alien theory but racist type deal, it almost reads like a bad parody of a Nazi independently recreating Scientology.

1. I didn't realize they actually used NS-Stats, that's pretty rare, and I can only assume done through a lot of vigilant issue-spotting.
2. Mizushima is Marxist, in a complicated but still practicing relationship with Christianity, and both she and Yuu are considered "queer icons", which is an absolutely fascinating set of characteristics.
3. I'm in their F7 factbook! Wow, so honored!
4. I'd assumed the pictures for their prominent figures were from Phoenix Wright, but they are in fact from an entirely different genre, type, and franchise of game, which not only shows the limits of my knowledge regarding anime-esque games, but also has since led me down a wikipedia rabbit-hole of mystery games, spooky Japanese houses, and an article on Qing China law... Needless to say, I now know a little bit more about stuff unrelated to it sooo...
5. I also learned of their origins in Heian Period Japan, wherein their name was given in reference to their white elephants which roamed the forests, and are quite obviously referenced in their flag.

People can drink up to six beers at a time; any more than that exceeds the legal limit. Public drinking is not permitted except at events like festivals and fairs, and alcohol can be sold to people 21 and older.

Those who commit crimes while drunk are not criminally charged, but they can be fined up to $750.

(I blame Alastair for making me go to the alcohol section.)

While most scenarios would have Somali/Somaliland be some shithole anarchyzone because 'haha, somali pirate funni' or something along those lines, the Country of Somaliland appears to be rather stable in this timeline. In fact, it has nearly 10x the population as in the OTL and has a total army size of 350,000 - which is quite small in ratio to its population, which implies that the entire nation isn't trying to kill itself.

The z is the "z" symbol; I probably should use a <sup> command equivalent in the wiki. oh well

In vein of AtE, they are a quasi-medieval polity that has risen to control the Texan coast of the Gulf of Mexico - and they practice the "Marsh religion", which I can only assume is a syncretic religion of some sort.

Apparently the TNO wiki conflates Burgsys and Spartanism, given that it called the Spartanist parts of Burgundy parts of the Burgsys. IIRC Burgsys is in actuality only practiced by Himmler's little gang and is specifically the "haha funi nuke the world lol praise odin" parts of the Ordenstaat. The Spartanism is considered a means to an end and is technically its own self-contained ideology inside of Burgsys, since no one in Burgundy outside of the inner circle knows the System exists and think that their little personal hell is Spartanist only. So it's similar to what the Wiki says but as usual the wiki's not entirely correct, I think.

Aww damn, I thought they run off Cola. Haha, I digress! Okay, so one of the things I have read is that Comerciante actually is a twist in itself, getting quite a good amount of gains from wars. Of course, the exports are the ones were they get a lot of profit from, and the Soda was definitely one of them. It is also a nice surprise that they also get profits from teaching supplies, which I assume are the typical textbooks and stationery. I love stationery! :3

Another thing I learned is how they have a combat drone that was fueled by revenge of a particular person in that conversation. The Board simply wants to make sure that they are looking at a guy with actual stuff instead of just a pipe dream, the personal vendetta be damned and comes second. Good Business Practices 101, even though it's for war and all that, hehe.
