Time prevents O'Brien from doing so by reversing itself by 93 years, this in turn makes O'Brien human again.

The stockbroker shoots O'Brien and steals his credit and debit cards.

O'Brien goes to a hospital, where the corrupt doctor tries to undo a life-saving procedure performed on him since he lacked the funds to pay for it. However, Mina Sezlet saves the day by shooting the doctor in the head and cancelling this debt. O'Brien joins Mina's team and moves to live in Zimbar Island.

O'Brien's soul gets transported to a neighboring spacetime continuum, the other O'Brien wakes up in a hospital, in a dazed state, and a large stich running along his left forearm.

New man named Jake, who happens to live on Zimbar Island as well.

Jake somehow falls into a vast cavern, located below Mina Sezlet's base of operations. Some of her associates have decided to manage this domain. A barrier is then set up to prevent anyone from ever entering or leaving. And through some sort of sophisticated design it would take a release of 10^{23} J of energy across the island to break it, which means basically only an asteroid impact or large-scale geological activity.

Jake falls several km, but doesn't die at the end.

Projection of ???: Welcome to this subterrane. You shall never escape.

Erin: Did I just hear something?

Show Spoiler

Erin then walks over to where Jake is.

Erin: Oh gosh... It's been so long since this last happened. Are you all right, dear one? heals Jake with an innate skill, resetting his HP to full Jake: Ugh... Thanks, I would have been dead without you I'm sure. Who are you exactly?

Erin: I am Erin, just a student of Aila's who got assigned to protect the first stages of this cavern. Unfortunately, for now there is no escape from this realm, and I have no idea why. We have set up civilization down here, so you can live here if you'd like. Let's get some supplies and grind levels against the undead from past eras.

Show Spoiler

Erin: Also, I'd like to introduce you to my adopted daughter Indy, who has vanquished ghosts for the first time.
Projection of ????: Lol, are you sure this isn't a genocide run?
Erin: Never happens on my watch. fires an ether bolt at Projection of ???, which fades out, still "alive" though

Show Spoiler

Projection of ????: And so the Ailatale continues. We'll see who wins in the end.

Meanwhile, the other O'Brien phases into Aila's continuum.

Projection of ????: No one can stop me. Ailatale will play out to the fullest extent.

Erin: That's so weird, lol. Did Jake just abruptly change?

Then the protestors rush into the building, killing everyone they encounter. Jake tries to get out of the building using the emergency escape, but accidentally falls on his head and slips into an endless coma.

New man, named Yoshi pushes his sunglasses upwards, while looking at the sunrise from the hospital room Jake is held in and says "Hmmp." "

Yoshi finds this thread, and notices that everything he writes here, happens in real life. He gives himself 10000000 Billion dollars, accidentally the inflation of the dollar increases a 10000% and his money is now useless.

O'Brien, meanwhile, is with Erin and Indy in the ruins of old Zimbar civilizations. They decide to set up a temporary base around an unusual energy field.

O'Brien: What is this green cube?

Erin: It restores your HP and recharges some of your equipment as well.

Suddenly, a robot appears out of nowhere.

Robot: "Hello, it's been a while since anyone's found their way here. Would you like any supplies?"
