An Exercise in Depth of Field, Ansur.

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

Hell's Bells by The Vitamin String Quartet

This thread is now incredibly diverse now that I look at it.

It actually, surprisingly, seems to be more populated with less popular bands then anything. I rarely see people post the mainstream, in my opinion, crap like Lady Gaga, Katy Perry, Maroon 5, and so on. It always seems to be lesser known stuff. Sure, there's quite a lot of popular stuff as well, but it definitely is pretty diverse.

Speaking of Quartet's. I dig a song by the Kronos Quartet. It's a cover of a song by my favorite band, and they do it complete justice. Hell, I think I like it more than the original, and I love the original and it's hard for me to say that to a cover of a song by my favorite band. It's a very dark song.

Sacrifice, Melvins.

From Lysol. These guys are so good, I wish I could've appreciated them ages ago.
