I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Leech-Inspirat

A word of advice. Don't name your band Leech. There's already like 7 freaking bands named Leech for Christ's Sake.

Don't like these guys as much as I did at one point, but I still can't help but dig some of their moments.

I'm usually too busy listening to the voices in my head to listen to music, but when I do, it tends to be music from the 1960s (like Frankie Valli).
