"This is the deplorable result of that experimental system of governance - the people were allowed to choose their own leader, and they chose someone completely without vision. The nation they are directing their fury at are a despicable lot, to be sure, but they at least have vision. A completely misguided, fractured, and depraved vision, but a vision none-the-less. But Smith is without vision, without experience, without energy, just someone completely bland and forgettable. Yet surprisingly, I find it difficult to hate him. I absolutely detest his secular, democratic state, and wish to see the glorious resurrected ones devour the butcher his government and people, but I find it difficult to truly despise a leader that actually possesses leadership skill. Perhaps when it comes time to kill him, I will reanimate him with his mind intact, out of professional respect for his capacity to lead. A good leader should make intelligent and pragmatic decisions, after all, and this is something Smith excels at. Even if he was put in power by a system with no authority to do so and no capacity to truly make intelligent, informed decisions."

"Other than being anarchists, I can find no information on this supposed 'ethnocouncil'. Not even my strongest divination objects are revealing to me their secrets. Thus, one of two things must be true - either are shielded by very powerful anti-divination magic, or they simply do not actually exist. The former is possible, but the latter is more probable. My theory is that they are a facade which the actual ruler hides behind."

Though her personality might be troublesome in exercises, many aces of their time were relabeled 'crazed and sociopathic' over 'fanatical', Herr Wittmann serves as a prime example. Where she taints rebellion filth with dishonourable qualities they have already retained to begin with, she returns the fervour with victory over victory, and that's all one should ask from an ace.

Though there is one problem, and that's not her resentment of authority. It's that of sacrifice. Would Frau Acehart have it in her to serve in a 'Leonidas Squadron' of her own if her fatherland calls her for it? If not, I can only imagine the Baron himself revolting in his grave."

People asked me the same question, but I think it's good that they rather not know, between you and me. I didn't really age gracefully given the radiation, heh heh. Do you want to see my face? Anyone? No? Oh, okay... I didn't mean it in a vain manner. Trust me, looks are not that much for me anymore, and I am glad that I stay in this armour for a good amount of time! It's getting weird!

So you are definitely not an apolitical person, and this on top of being neutral towards fascism... I am so sorry, my friend. I really am hoping that it does not come this way, but we simply have to make sure. We have quite a number of attacks from fascists lately, and we are hoping that you are not the one to support their causes. It's too early to judge you, of course.

Echoing what Jolyn thought of that fellow from Ignis States, I am at least glad to hear that you are against fascists and Nazis. So... that is a definite positive from me! Other than that, I honestly have nothing much to talk about regarding you. You are good with us, politically speaking, and I really am hoping that Valentians do not ignore someone just because of their politics. Oh sure, there are certain brands of politics that we hate, but ultimately, we just want to be that someone that accepts people for who they are. It's hard to accept hatred, but I digress. "Normally I'd talk about their fiasco of an invasion of a Nazi rump state but that has been beaten to death. But there's little to talk about this cookie-cutter liberal as I've already made my hatred of politicians clear."

The Avant-Gardist State of Patagonia ~ Gauchos and Mapuches, orgies and parties, avant-garde art, futurism, syndicalism, the New Man, general strikes, the glorification of violence, spiritual nationalism, esoteric occultism, CIA spooks, Spartanian homosexuality, public sodomy, and more

Triomphe du Surréalisme (1968)

- There are many things said about Patagonia but few actually know what goes on behind the Andes mountains. Tales of human depravation and man's inner darkest self run wild. A place where avant-garde culture flourish and the artist don't fear the censor. Where all live bold and free under the gaze of the Patron. Yet all dreams will come to an end soon...
- Not expecting an essay. Just a couple of sentences that shows that you know my work well enough

"Second term? Are you implying that he has the same endemic issue as other twoleg leaders - not being able to rule for their lifetime? It seems, that he is opposed to both lawlessness and proper, iron-pawed rule. While being opposed to the first is good, being opposed to the second is unfortunate. It seems that he, similarly to me, has no partner right now, and doesn't need an one. However, for his StarClan he indeed has a lot of faith, even if its existence is way more dubious. Overall, not much more to say from that small paper of info I found."

"A Muslim without wives is as rare as a Markosean without debts, This man is like all other democratic Muslim leaders, either they are strongmen who border on dictators or they are forgettable like Mr. Jamal here, I wonder how long it will take his nation to fall into a civil war"

"Last time I checked the cats couldn't reach this level of organization, so consider me intrigued, this Shortstar seems to be a good leader under her tribal conditions, leading with a firm but gentle hand she has achieved great things, and so I can respect this cat"
