"Now this is indeed a fascinating machine. She has undergone many transformations, endlessly perfecting herself as she grows ever stronger. It is unfortunate that her association with such fools continues to hold her back from achieving true power. But I would guess that if questioned along such lines she would decline such a gift. Unfortunate, but what can you do. I do find discussion of this 'entropy stable dimension' to be much more concerning than the rest of her capabilities. I may have to investigate and deal with such a phenomenon personally."

are angered and hot-tempered, or you have someone bothering you? Just take some time, to let the anger slip away... and reflect about yourself! Maybe one day, you can be my friend as well! ♪ I wish you a great day! Everyone deserves

"Considering the time stamps on our data, the Holy Roman Emperor is an unremarkably average, if slightly progressive, monarch for his era. Were this to be 2020 though, I would consider his absolutist rule utterly unacceptable. Luckily, people like him hopefully only have a few decades left - the time for the proletariat is coming..."

"He's just another greedy leech who wants to get somewhere without doing anything so he becomes a communist, you know what I mean? Spies on the people while throwing them rotten meat they eagerly eat up, because there's nothing else left to eat thanks to decades of socialist mismanagement. Punishes people who believe there's a power higher than him - no wonder religion's an opiate of the masses, if they didn't have it life there would be even more unbearable. And, as is typical for communists, he's a historical determinist who ignores everything else in existence just to say their revolution is supposedly inevitable. Worst of all, he's a gamer."
