Three years of imprisonment without a permit to sell foods, no punishment with a permit, and, if, somehow, someway, they sold the hot dogs right off of the literal street, then you have close to ten years of imprisonment and a hefty fine because of how many laws it breaks.

First, the charging itself can find you guilty for the crime of fraud, since you are not really providing the service of window insurance. By offending the crime you can be sentenced for 15 years imprisonment and 470000 Eaux.

Then, smashing the window is also another (two) crimes. If you haven't done it, the victim reserve their right to report you for the crime of intimidation, which can bring you to another 2-year imprisonment and 20000 Eaux fine. If you really did it, then you are guilty for the crime of criminal damage, which is another imprisonment period between 7 months and 5 years, depending on how large the damage you have done. You are also responsible to pay a 3x fund to the victim for their repairing.

Oh also did I mention that all insurances are state-owned and included in the tax? This also counts as impersonating a public official and that will be another 9 months.

Telephone fraud.

Fraudulently claiming to be a telephone when you are actually a person can get you five years in prison, though no one has ever been prosecuted for this.

Telecommunications fraud (e.g. Phone scams) usually come with 10 years jail, 20 years if your victim is elderly and up to 40 years if you're the ringleader of a scam operation.
