November 1923 - Young aspiring Artist, Austrian Pan-German Idealist, and leader of the NSDAP, Adolf Hitler, attempts to march on Berlin and murder the Allied-instilled Weimar Regime. His coup-d'etat abruptly ends when a Weimar soldier shoots him in the neck, leaving him to bleed out and die. The Reichswehr victoriously apprehend and execute members of the Party.

Those parts of the economy dubbed "non-vital" and are therefore not run by a Ministry of the Presidium are instead under the authority of the Communist Party of Kronova. The Party's key role in guiding Kronova's economy is prescribed in its constitution, where it is described as, "an all-union of tradesmen, communes, and workers of Kronova." Whenever the Presidium ratifies a Five Year Plan for action, it is sent to Party leadership to be enacted as according to their instructions.
