I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Pink Floyd-Welcome to the Machine

Geez, I looked them up yesterday and one of their albums has sold a ridiculous amount. What the hell is this nonsense? A talented band selling well? One of the most influential bands in history? Selling well?

Time for me to actually go through Pink Floyd more thoroughly, though. I only knew singles. My mom loves Pink Floyd. Everyone recommends I go through Pink Floyd. So I think it is time to do so. And they ended up getting their entire discography on Spotify.
