I really admire her work on her nation's education system though. As somebody who found the school system pretty tedious myself, it's refreshing to see a leader see education as more than just a bunch of paperwork and frustrating tests."

You can have the most powerful gun in the world, but that won't save you if you don't have the reflexes to gain the edge on the enemy. It's very easy to be able to see your foes weaknesses when training with blades instead of rifles. For that reason alone, Ari and her methods of war could be effective in the modern age. Though, it would also take common sense to conduct raiding and pillaging as a more covert operation in today's world... If that is the case, then this ruler has not made any effort to reform his country, but instead let it fall deeper into the the grasp of conservative theocracy. Prudism, required worship, an absolute disregard for separation of church and state, banning of abortions and oppression of those who are not LGBT- the list of terrible offenses and removal of civil freedoms in the name of his religion is nearly endless. For this reason, I have nearly no praise for the conservative and reactionary Tser- indeed, my opinion is greatly negative. I suppose the one area I could approve of is his dislike for the British Empire, which I share as well."

"Ah, look. An interesting case study in how, on the rare occasion, someone in a monarchy realizes how deeply they've screwed up, and lost the right to rule. One thing I've noted- You're a lot like your allergy to daisies. Only applicable in certain circumstances. You couldn't even stop your own men from executing a king you planned to let go- What does that say about your qualities as a leader? About how people are willing to follow you, in times of crisis? By Maongaurd, the only confidence you showed in your actions was hiding in a crowd to take the shot! And the entire war- Fought because of extended family? You led your men to die over a member of your extended family? Utterly pathetic- And even moving on from the war, you are a man without a spine. You entered a duel, and you feel sorry for killing the man on the other side, yet you still grow to like the sport? Does the blood of a single man weigh heavy on your mind, Jerry? Or is it deeper? Is it the blood of the war you fought, weighing on your hands? Do the death of the 'commoners', as you so refer to them, stain your mind and hands with blood that you cannot find yourself to let go of? You're a soldier who has lost his conviction to fight. Find it again, or you may be facing a deeper crisis in your reign. We've both fought wars and battles, in the mind and on the field- But one of us has clearly came out the better. Now, I've got more important things to do than discuss a cowboy, wearing a crown stained red with a blood-guilt that he can't find the conviction to clean."

Valentijn "De Sierlijke en Vrij Valkyrie General ov Valentine Z" Samantha Maxwell Delta Weston Stijn Angelus Tracey Mitchell Tristian Mamix Basilisk Lewis Hyatt X. Constantine Sein Lin ZawNaing: I call dibs on his legs! Okay, walk. Towards him. Slowly... Steady, keep it straight! Gwen, if you are controlling my arms, at least swing them and give Valentina some help! All right, all right! Sheesh! Half men, half men... something. Anyway, hello to you, my friend! Ohhh hey, it's Zkto! It's been a while, how are you? Haha, it's been soooo long to see you! I am Clarissa... and Valentijn, and Valentina, and Gwen. We got into a little bit of an incident, but we are figuring this out! Anyway, how have you been? I hope you have been well! We kinda do miss you! Although, I don't think it will hurt for me to tell Zkto that he is a little bit rude to people around him! Come on, man, be nice! I mean, I am against disarmament too - who doesn't hate having their arms cut off?! Would love to have you show me the cats one day, but as you can see, I am in a bit of a... conundrum. See you around! Backwards, Valentina... Put the feet backwards! Gwen, stop waving the arms repeatedly. I think I splattered someone! Oh great, who did you squash with my hands? Err... might want to see and hear. Heyyy... what the hell? Am I in Val's body? I err... neat. That was quite a surprise, Markus. So wait, why are you here? Well, I just wanted to say how positive I was towards the guy here! We have just met him, right? But he is already looking positive and promising! He's a pretty polite person, though I wonder if he is a little too positive over Zkto. That is kinda his schtick. I think even we Valentians could learn something from him. Right... Valentina, give me back the control to my legs. Good, now Gwen.. how the hell do I blink out of here again? Close your eyes and imagine where you want to go! Oh yeah, that. On second thought, let's walk. It is a much, much safer option with all of you inside.

...What the hell happened here? Bruh, you look messed up. Might want to see a doctor about that.

Anyway, ignoring the current unfortunate situation, considering how peaceful these Valentians are, I'm not exactly too willing to trust them. Hell, Governor Caton spoke directly to me for the first time in years, just to warn me about Gwen's threats towards nations with policies that the Valentians disagree with! I mean, there are many countries that I don't like, but I'm certainly not going to snap their populations out of existence, or edit their histories. Not even if I had the ability to do it.

As for an opinion of Valentine's actual policies, well, I don't agree with quite a good chunk of them, but for the sake of brevity I'll give just one example: his policy on manufacturing industry. It's so corporatist that you'd think it were written by the CEO of Oceania, Inc. with the express intention of preventing small businesses from existing. Because of how expensive raw materials are, in no small part due to their environmental policy, the only things that can purchase raw materials for manufacture are massive corporations. Furthermore, the requirements on electronic devices for sale just feeds into this corporatism, no small business could ever hope to fulfill these requirements.

Then again, small businesses don't really matter in Valentine Z, as so much of their economy is government-run. I swear, the Valentian approach to economic policy is like doing brain surgery with a sledgehammer.

“Seven curses to the wind, this guy stepped into a shitpile good and proper. He must have some serious dirt on a lot of people to pull off all of those things it is said he’s done, so I have to say I admire him somewhat. He knows how to allocate resources and find ways to scrounge up more, and he comes across as at least a little conciliatory despite all the people I just know he’s angered. I think I could strike a deal or two with him, so he’s all right with me.” -Cala Vermuth Iron Tiger

Godulan Puppet #2, RPing as technologically advanced tribal society founded by mongols and vikings (and later with multiple other Asian and Native American cultures) motivated by an intrinsic devotion to the spirit of competition. They'll walk softly, talk softly, and make soothing noises as they stab you in the back and take your stuff... unless you're another Caleshan, whereupon they'll only stab you in the back figuratively!

Used NS stats: Population. That's it. Anything else not stated in the factbooks is not used.
