Since Ankras is set 40,000 years before my nation existed, I'm going to write this post from a historical viewpoint

"It is not often we get to learn about the lives of humans from thousands of years ago, let alone extensively. After reading intensively about Inteins Arek, my opinion on him is, to say the least, neutral. Arek, during his leadership of Ankras, seemed to develop a proud nation after overthrowing the military junta he grew up in, I too have overthrown a junta in my home planet Macragge, though as far as I know, he didn't directly lead his soldiers in the conflict, which I hold neither positive or negative opinions on since such a thing wasn't very common during those times. As for his policies, I'm not too fond of his extensive support of welfare systems, over the years I have governed the Imperium during my father's rest on the Golden Throne, I eventually learned that large amounts of welfare tend to inflate the currency, which is why I eventually had to get rid of it to prevent the Throne from collapsing on itself, the government simply cannot support an entire nation, at least the Imperium of Man, perhaps the situation with Ankras was different. There's also the fact of how Arek supports socialist ideals, I have read about Socialism when I was a child on Macragge, and I learned how it was damaging to the people and economy, the Imperium has a quasi-socialist economy that controls what corporations in our empire do while still allowing them, along with the citizens, to have as much money as they like, but the idea of trying to evenly divide the amount of money throughout a nation no matter the size of the population is just impossible, capitalism is definitely the superior system in my opinion. Overall, as I have said, I'm neutral on Inteins Arek, he has done things I agree and do not agree with."-Roboute Guilliman, Lord Commander of the Imperium

"The Emperor Protects!"-Common Imperial saying

The Great Imperium of Man is a Warhammer 40k themed nation based on the human faction of the game. Though we're inspired by the Imperium of Man from the lore, I've taken certain liberties to make my nation unique from other 40k nations.

As for actual policy, if you could even call it that, she's just a typical communist who claims to "fight da powah", yet completely and utterly fails at removing money's influence over politics. Only nation, race, blood can do that; the only thing that communism does is flip the stack upside-down, giving to those on the bottom the advantages of being on the top.

Now as for Sakura, I am at least thankful that they are suited for such a task as leadership. Decent upbringing and literature do help, I have found! As for policies, there's not too much for me to agree on, I'm afraid. I've never understood the need to speech of any kind, although it could be worse in this situation. In economic policies, I think we may almost be complete opposites."
