Don't know how you'll be able to get away with that since zookeepers have to take care of the animals at night. Probably a year in prison for every animal

I'd say this nation is about 85-90% representative to my beliefs. About the only difference between my nation and beliefs is that free markets are effective in a select few situations, and the compulsory organ harvesting is kind of screwed up

Up to 200 Asvires as a fine, and 3 points lost in your license. If you hurt anyone you could be tried for vehicular manslaughter.

Tricking your neighbors into robbing you, then taking them to the cops.

Death. Immediate death, most likely by firing squads. Either that, or permanent incarceration in one of the many death labour camps.

Defection.

For civilians, it is not punished. For soldiers during war, death either by military tribunal if caught or on the battlefield.

Lose custody over the child, and also 5 to 20 years in the worst cases where the child is submitted to serious harming or degrading treatments.

During wartime, display national symbols of the enemy nation in a way of showing support.

If said species is injured, but still alive, 5.500R fine. But if said species is dead or sold on the black market, it would make for a 3. 5 year prison sentence and 1.8500R fine.

If its a legal asylum then its legal, if its done by the normal civilian, 10 years in prison with no parole and an increasingly worse sentence the worse the fugitive's crimes.

Illegal logging and illegal game hunting.

For illegal logging, um... good luck? The heaviest duty logging equipment a civilian in Northern Eurasia could get their hands on would be a really good axe. I suppose if you got enough guys together with axes you could set up a moderately sized unsanctioned logging operation, so maybe we should look at enacting legislation about this, but as it stands it's not a crime. As for illegal game hunting, you would almost have to be trying to hunt illegally since in large parts of the country hunting is completely unrestricted (see Siberia - hunting is often necessary for survival). However, if you somehow manage it, the punishment would be a light fine or up to two years in prison if you're found to be operating or involved in a poaching ring.

Technically, you could end up being fined by a small amount for it being a only a minor infraction, but it's not strictly enforced.
