Americans trying to emulate the East Asian method of testing until students' brains melt met predictable results.

I just remembered how the US has Florida Man, and that may...skew the data a bit. Obviously, not all Florida men are Florida Man, but there are enough headlines that it's a meme. (Florida's a pretty populous state.)

Honestly, the reason why Florida Man exists is arguably a good thing. It's because my state's got very strong public records laws and nearly everything (unless the state legislature specifically exempts it) done by the government is made available to the public if they so request it.

And surely we should all agree that more government transparency is good, yeah?

I've heard that FL does make their records readily available before. I imagine that, if it were like that all across the US, the media would have a field day...

Increased government transparency is definitely a good thing.

Sorry for bringing the discussion back to NSG, but how about people who post IC-shit in NSG? (Or just don't seem to really 'get' how the forums work in general)

I fortunately do not see IC stuff in NSG enough, if at all. But I do see threads in F7 that would be better suited for NSG. (The OP is usually a one-liner, though.)

But I believe you in that it happens a lot.

PMT/Early FT - Decopunk. Zitragrad is a crowned republic in a planet somewhere else in the universe. The formerly wartorn nation keeps a facade of normalcy and order while enjoying the societal and cultural decadence that marks the new Roaring Twenties. The paranoid authoritarian government tries its best to uphold order in the face of uncertainty, while its people want nothing more than a breathing space. A deal that works, but maybe not in the long run. |

One line rps. I find it odd that there is a lot of good examples to have a thoroughly detailed story but the players who do it decide a good story is "My troops cross land and shot you." I get it that not everyone is top notch roleplayer (including me) but it can't hurt to try to write something closer to a paragraph, right?

Some people come here just because they wanna "take over the world" with their "invincible military" or whatever. Most will get bored and leave. There are plenty of better ways to do such things.

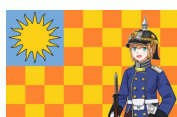

But a few, for whatever reason, stay. And just online post for months or even years.
