Death by guillotine.

Grain speculation.

Alternate Germany where the Spartacist League (KPD, German Communist Party) ultimately defeated the German Right for control of the Fatherland and toppled the Weimar Republic as well.

I spent an unnecessary amount of time researching what grain speculation is in relation to being something criminal, and did not find much explanation nor justification for its criminality, so I'm going to have to say not a crime.

Throwing tiny, handheld calculators at a group of 12 schoolchildren.

Probably a need for an embarrassed apology, nothing more.

Drinking a claret just before working a government desk job. That's actually a Franklinitite tradition, for the record. Every workplace, with few exceptions, including government agencies, provide bottles and glasses of claret for that purpose. A claret to brace oneself for the workday.

Confiscation of the property and of the uranium, and if you're very lucky, you might get to keep your life and get a cushy exile....if you're unlucky, well, there are prisons and there is also the guillotine.
