No, I'm sending you an ambassador only to have him kicked out right after.

The good old days on this site when it seemed like 95% of embassy thread OPs were just like:

Okay, who here said, and I will paraphrase this: 'Nations that are based on RL nations but are just named differently and their history hasn't changed a bit.'

The Direction This Puppet Will Be Heading Down

- AU/H Confederate States of America in the 1920s.
- Going to mention incidents of race violence and lynchings.
- I'm not so sure but if I can, I'm going to make SUF graphic.
- The Southern Union of Freedonia is like North Korea under Kim Il-Sung and The Unified States of Freedonia like South Korea under Syngman Rhee
- Unless you can stomach some the graphic content I will be adding, you can steer clear of this one.

The Fact that the Describe your relations with the AU gets a lot more influx from not F7ers, which makes the rate of "I don't know who they are" a lot higher.

It's kinda weird why they are that active in that particular thread.

Well, sooner or later you'll be in trouble for spamming. Tbh the activity of thinking of random strings to add to spam burns anyone up quite quickly anyways, it's far more sustainable (and faster) to join hot NSG discussions or jump into an RP to rapidly pump out your count. My largest is usually when the topic involves religion, or during an in-progress real-time event such as the 2020 US elections.

Players who make threads in moderation to ask for help with something and claim that the mods are ignoring them.

And then a mod will come in and inform them (and anyone who reads the thread) that the OP has done something like sent 6 GHRs in the past two hours about the same thing and has spammed three mods inboxes asking for help too and that they need to learn to be patient.

Yea personally I never bothered, deciding to assume it's based around the American system with some minor changes in curriculum due to certain subjects and careers not actually existing (ergo- gender studies, gender sciences, religious sciences...) and no need for a dedicated curriculum for religious leaders (majority of the people are non-religious. Honestly, there's no point, even if there's like a few sunday schools that can help push someone to become a preacher through an exchange program)

Most alien civilizations in general: obviously advanced and have laser weapons because they are aliens; they obviously possess a star fleet because they are aliens; it is obviously a spacefaring alien empire because...they're aliens.
