I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I wish I knew how to make throat singing not bother my throat so much, because I manage to pull off throat singing better than I expect to with absolutely no experience with it whatsoever. I just started throwing it out with little time of trying to do it one day, and I can still do it, but it bothers my throat quickly.

Whistling and throat singing at the same time on the other hand...

Erm...This is not a chat thread. Well, we discuss music here sometimes, like I just did a bit ago, but you're supposed to post music (or something) you're listening to. Not just post "Hello!"

Ah, okay.

And I'd advice not telling people to shut the F up on these forums. Especially for something simple as what I just said. Not a good way to last long around here. Pretty sure that's flaming.
