Can. As such, the AN leader remains the default and an always correct answer and is far from inadequate.

I am not supposed to do it for Clarissa, I am allowed to do it for Clarissa. Otherwise you should add to the OP that it has to be about the quoted character. Or turn it from ANs Leader to Above Leader.

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

Opinion on Mason Mercer
Status: Not Classified, for public's eye, if necessary

Overall, there is little on the Mason's political views in the factbook, but I assume, that he probably supports the ruler's policies, as they are bound by blood, and all that jazz. If so, then he, just like Andrew, is a political normie, when it comes to things - third positionists typically oppose globalism, are non-interventionist, and such. When I say "normie", I don't always mean mainstream views, but rather combinations, which I have seen countless times, and which aren't surprising by this point anymore, like right-wing anti commies.

Now for his personal info - though the text of description of his outfit, where he spends his free time, and all that other petty stuff, it seems, that his career started out in a pretty miserable spot - being an orphan in Chicago, and committing his first murder when he was twelve. We, the fascists, usually glorify strength, but such strength is dangerous, when not curtailed.

As for his activities in criminal world... He is one lucky son of a gun, if he hasn't been arrested. Sure, he has ties within the elites, but still... By now, there probably should be bounty hunters going on for his head. That said, one day you might catch a fish, which might be too big to bring out, and elites will prove to be not enough for damage control. Beware...

Also, a not so important tidbit - it seems, that he confirms the suspicion, that age doesn't automatically mean, that you are taller as well - he is the second youngest of the siblings, yet is significantly taller than the older one. Eh, they both stopped aging at like 25 anyways, due of the "life elixir" their daddy drank, and it transformed in their DNA.

Opinion on Richard Lagenmauer

Status: Not Classified, for public's eye, if necessary

Let's start with dissecting this German's political views, as it is one of my favorite pastime activities. His foreign policy is something, which I like, surprisingly enough, along with the whole Europhile thing - it reminds me of the British Mosleyite Eurofederalists a bit, although he would probably claim, that he has little in common with them. While I might argue about German "divine right" to intervene, I don't doubt, that there is a nation, which has all the rights granted by God to intervene in all of world's affairs, isolationists and anti-globalists be damned. As for domestic policy, he seems to be fighting back against laissez-faire claptrap of the liberal era, not furthering the gap between wealthy and poor, along with generous welfare grants, and overall nationalism with progressivist face, and anti-luddism - a stance one doesn't see so often, as most of the liberals I have met have neither pride or faith in the culture of their nation, or its existence at all. Although, one might argue, that liberal and a progressive are two different breds. It is also good, that he is against fossil fuels, yet his anti-immigration stance is somewhat surprising - wasn't that the thing which progressives loved so much? That said, his support for the LGBT+, anti-socialist stances, opposition of punitive justice, and in general still being in favor of democracy is one of the few things, which irks me. While nowhere near a political normie, still an opponent in the end.

It seems, that his European Society had also well curtailed Russia back in the 2013, which is a pretty nice feat, because if the superstate period has taught us something, then Russians are always one of those, who crave for more influence, along with East Asians. That said, Germans in our scenario were more often than not on the chopping block, so here's that.

On personal life... It is still quite weird, that his family is religious, yet still pretty much anti-conservative on most of stances. I know, that he is one of those cultural Christians, and that liberal and moderate religious strains exist, but still - conservatism, and religiousness in general tend to go hand in hand.

At last, I inspected a bunch of shiny circles he received as "medals" from other governments, along with lots of other short personal info with little use. So, what's the final verdict? My jacobinism aside, he is certainly a strange man, yet he can make his views to be believable, and make sense. Overall, balancing on negative-neutral.

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

I would like to really see them try to attack us one day, and realise the kind of mistake they are making for themselves. We will never strike at them, but we will surely give them hell if they come after us. As for yourself... you look utterly pathetic. Who the hell would relate with you? I... I can't take you seriously no matter what. So, you already know that I am negative towards you, and I love that signature. Goes to show how fragile they are and they have to overcompensate with overpowered weaponry because no one likes them. Well.. maybe one or two do, but that's not the point, is it?

Very long name.

Is there anything else that your leader would like to talk about mine? Maybe something more about Gwen here: viewtopic.php?p=34883448#p34883448

Those 3-words don't count. Do better.

No? Okay, still me, then. I am honestly a little tired of being shitposted multiple times.

".....Interesting. Very interesting.....while I have said a few things about Valentine Z in the past, I had hardly mentioned anything related to its individual persons of interest. So I would daresay it's time I rectify that mistake. While Gwen....er, Tracer, depending on what I should call her, doesn't really have a lot of information about actual politics, I can certainly admire the power she has. Chronokinetics can be seen as overdone, but it's exceedingly rare that someone actively combines these abilities with something more effective. Her reality manipulation, while short lived and possessing some weaknesses, is perhaps one of the strongest I've seen in reality.....though she could do with more destructive weaponry. Perhaps adding some Chaos or Hatred based enchantments or augments to her gear would prove useful.....but I digress! I can save the hypothetical upgrades for later...and for when I'm asked! In summation, Gwen, along with the rest of her compatriots, is one of my preferred VIPs of the multiverse."

What happens when you cross anime powers and overpowered leaders with furies, all written by a bored Homestuck fan with too much time? Well, you get Rumei. A multiethnic, FT republic with both might and magic that let it conquer the entire Orion Arm.

A 7.6 (this is probably outdated but I can't do the calculations rn) (Tier 9, Level 6, Type 9) according to this index.

Come to The Orion, we got CULTURE and FURRIES

Show Recommendation: Cobra Kai. It is very, very good.

IC Name: Roman Republic, or simply Rome (Rumei). Occasionally called the Ignisian Republic. Current year is 2697.
