Bruh, who wants to fight when it's wet outside? That just sounds like no fun at all.

It's a moderately sized nation with a moderately sized? (Not obese nor underweight?) and devout population with a strong Canadian vibe.

So maybe it's just Canada.

And it's Geography Dispatch has "Oh Canada, oh Canada" on it, so maybe it's just Canada.

But some reason despite being Canada they maintain a large military for their size.

It's corrupt Canada 😊

Seriously when I made OA it was based on an entirely different theme that lasted about five seconds while I was making it. I then turned it into a sort of haha-funny corrupt joke nation because I was feeling like a funny guy. And then I made it like Canada because I think Canada is neat. And now it's just literally the Gilded Age US with some labor laws economically, the Vietnam-era US politically, and Newfoundland and Alberta's illicit lovechild in every other way.

I wonder what would've happened if Switzerland was like Old Prussia? Bet it would've been cool.

The Swiss Confederate is a fascist Linkabsolute regency that follows a theocratic juridical system, in which the Catholic Bible is referred to in law. In military circles, the country can also be attributed as a junta due to the close relationship between the Swiss Cabinet and the Swiss Component, the latter being the armed forces of Switzerland

During World War II, the Carbineers for Internal Protection was primarily tasked with handling the refugee crisis during 1942. They were also organized as a sort of expert military police force which carried out the responsibilities of the normal police and were aided by the Neo Wolverian Army.

Sylvia and Julienne Dellamorte reside in an imposing castle in Berlin; furthermore, after WW2, the entire city was apparently rebuilt to fit the parameters of a more Romanticist/quasi-Medieval aesthetic style than it was before.

Tohorin was the name of the ancient Palmerans' sun goddess, and also the name of the civilization that developed on their island before the arrival of the Spanish. Reading this was quite the moment of revelation for me - I've seen an account named Tohorin on F7 before, and I knew it belonged to the same player, but I never put two and two together until I read that. 🇵🇸

Somehow Antarctica not only has a country- but it's also the most advanced in the world. And it thawed it, (without raising sea level), so now it supports 67! million people. Interesting concept.
