Is the No Rules RP forever etched into NS history or just another footnote?

A Pacific nation that's primarily a melting point of Polynesian, East Asian and French cultures, to rephrase: a MT liberalwank nation whose main premise is composed on a melting pot of cultures and ethnicities

Yeah a thread not even lasting a month before it gets locked and told not to be recreated ain't exactly NS history. It'd have to have gone through multiple incarnations and be regarded as a staple of F7 for it to even be considered NS history.

No rules RP was bound to fail I saw that coming miles away just the worst of F7, I mean how do you call something 'no rules' then complain when it devolves into a shitfest footnote?

I expect a lot of the general regular participants to not be on this site by then.

Fair enough then; would I be regarded as in that category, seeing as I'm the idiot who got in a telegram war with Ashotu before just leaving it altogether.

Honestly, that depends on you. You seem someone with potential that develops their lore, but having a good lore is sadly no guarantee for remaining on the site.

It's mostly that people who come here intending to gain all the benefits without putting in any effort tend to get bored and leave, although that too isn't a guarantee.

However, the pattern so far is that a effortposter is far less likely to leave than a summerposter (the term originally referring to posters that came over summer vacation and then left after it).

Just, from a statistical viewpoint, a lot of the more obvious users of the thread belong to the second group.

Less of a cliché, more of a long dwelling comment here, but RP seems to be quite foreboding to someone new like myself. There are some amazing posts on these forums that read like novels that I'd love to throw myself into one of these days, but for every one of those, there's another ten that read like a slap fight between a pair of toddlers. It's a hassle to figure out what's quality work and what's actually going to remain active past a few days. Also still is quite annoying to write a detailed response and get a one sentence reply. My fault for attempting to do it I suppose.

Arms Dealing, Blockade Running, Black Market Procurement, Mercenary Contracting. We get you what you want, where you want it, for a price. We also chose to not sign anti-piracy laws for a reason, it'd be a shame if your cargo went missing.
