"Chief Alpha? So that's what that thing calls itself? Such barbarity. But I suppose such should be expected from a creature that is no more than a hound with the ability to speak and stand up straight. It certainly does not have the intelligence of a man, that much is obvious. His is a childish level of intellect, consistently overridden by his baser feelings and instincts. Combined with the capability of speech, this mutt is more trouble than it's worth."

- Roman Feodorovich of the Great House Udarov, Second of His Name, Tsar and Head of State of the People's Empire of Varegia

"I must say that this 'Alpha' system is no way to run a country. Such practices only lead to unnecessary suffering and nothing is ever gained from it. We humans were right to leave such backward practices in our ancient past."

- Dmitri Medvedev, President and Head of Government of the People's Empire of Varegia

"I have little concern for things that hold such little relevance to our fatherland, but if you must know what I think of the 'Monster of the River Ván', then I will tell you. The Monster of the River Ván, also known as... let me get the document here... as 'Hróðvitnir', is essentially exactly what you'd expect just from looking at him. He looks like a wolf (sort of), and he acts like one too. Not necessarily in a good way, I should add. He's an animal, through and through. Man has, of course, shown his mastership over such creatures, and this abominable cross between man and beast disgusts me, as I am sure it does many others. I imagine even the ancient Varyags of our country, who counted the wolf-god Fulgar among their pantheon, would shun such a creature. Even if Vargheim were near enough to be relevant to us, they would pose no serious problem. Their 'military' is composed of a shoddy militia, made up of neon-colored canine people. Their lack of tactical thinking is clear and easily exploitable."

Oswald's Mood: Anti-Communist. Jünge

"If he told me face to face that he, a communist, promised to lead his country through a peaceful and prosperous future, I won't be so happy to know that he is serious about it. He can go over to the graves of my father and mother, victims of radical communist terrorists, perhaps he should ask them or the millions of lives that were ended through starvation by the communist regime in the Russy Federation. His direction of communism may be as lax in comparison to the aforementioned communists, I still despise it nevertheless. Communism is an affront to everything in this world."

Le Patron could be seen reading a dossier on Alisa. In spite of knowing that she has lynched Muslims, slashed people throats, and sent men to their needless deaths; Le Patron could only grin at the thought of all of it and let out a thundering clap as if he had just read a fine piece of literature.

"Magnificent. You're good... for a woman and you might be like my kind of trouble. There's a contradiction between your position and the actions you've committed. I expected a monarch not to get her hands dirty nor a champion of rights turned out to be just a psychopathic killer prancing around in a crown. But that moment when you slashed the father's, the mother's, and his loved one's heads it really provoked me. Am I just getting old and complacent when there are even more cruel and messed up people than me? I'll up the ante..."

The signal from the Kremlin is shifting elsewhere, sending the telecommunication into a brief period of static and unholy computer error alarms...

Surrealist Patagonia: "The Ministry of Defense, on the behalf of the Kremlin, demands my assessment of this gentleman for future analysis? What assessment? "I don't have much opinion on Mr. Nedelykov other than he is supervised because of his political affiliation, and rightly so. People like him, who shared the ideology he chose to align himself with, are a threat to civilization. Nonetheless, while I would like to say he has improved himself, I don't believe he has actually improved... it's just a curtain of lies and deception. The only good thing I find good about him is that he believes the most adept should rule a country, a thing that is "Technocracy" but, like communism, it ends bad in practice with an oligarchy he himself seems to support. That's all, my opinion is slightly negative."

"I refuse to believe this, I absolutely refuse to believe this. Are you telling me that... a Muslim... supports women's rights and doesn't dislike LGBT individuals? I... I am astounded. Sure, call me Islamophobic or whatever, but then come to Southeast Asia, go to Indonesia, and try to say you are a woman who loves women, or a man who loves men. Then tell me how far that's going to get you. Either way, I find myself surprisingly close with the Sultan when it comes to issues like women's rights (and human rights in general). Of course, there are a few deal-breakers as well - like his support for dictatorships and absolute monarchies - but, regardless, I agree with him in more things than I do not. I wish the Sultan the best."

"I disagree, dudete. If ya' ride a custom made modern tachanka with roarin' motor, outfitted with badass armor and six barrel minigun, sayin' that free love is best love in Southeast Asia gonna get ya' anywhere! Call me islamophobe, but just like her, I have battled islamists many times too, when I was just a simple road warrior. I didn't perform recon, I just rode and fought in fast paced adrenaline filled battles, using gun and tire iron. Unlike her I didn't have pleasure to study in academy, maybe cause ridin' a heavy roaring bike is far not as complicated as piloting a helicopter. Yes, I know, what the hell I am talking about, becasse I tried to ride helicopter too. Yes I can drive one, but in a very sloppy manner.

But man, why doesn't she love us? We are secular, we are republican... ish, we are all armed, so that's rather militaristic! This kitty for some reason decided to hold a disdain on us despite all those awesome things, we have in Skyhooked!"-Shawn Bjornson Skyhooked is MT/PMT with a few FT elements. Military is factbook only. NS stats are mostly non canon.

"Now that I reflect on our conflict from long ago and hear of the tales you have had fighting the Islamists and supporting your people, I no doubt have a fair amount of respect for you. But that does not mean we are comrades, for you have taken down a regime that was a close associate a long time ago. That being said, I'd have half a mind to look into interdicting Cioccolata into the order."

~Grandmaster Baldassar Cagliares

IC: the Order of Mare Nostrum, but are also known as the Knights of Mare Nostrum or simply Mare Nostrum.

Anthem: Ave Regina Caelorum

The Knights of Mare Nostrum are an order formed in 1189 centered around islands in the Mediterranean after the Knights Hospitaller and Templar merged, along with the integration of other knightly orders, serving as a militarized Papal State which utilises what is essentially hyper-militaristic canon law.

"Although I appreciate the praise coming from the Prime Minister. I wouldn't want him to have a false perception of me and Deccan. It is true as we are staunch supporters of women rights as the Prophet (Peace be Upon Him) also raised the position of women in a tribal and extremely patriarchal society and we simply follow the Prophet's (Peace be Upon Him) path and the Qur'an. But unfortunately you have assumed that we do the same with LGBT individuals. We consider our women as our queens and we simply follow what our religion tells us in regard to women and their rights. But when it comes to unorthodox sexual practices and preferences, it is strictly forbidden in Deccan and even punishable as you will see in "Shariah of Arshanid Deccan". I simply wish to clarify and speak the truth so the Prime Minister doesn't have a false idea of Deccani law and if this may change his attitude towards me then I'd prefer he knows the truth and opposes me rather believes in a misinterpretation and favours me"

- Sultan Arslan Siddiqui Bahadur

AN:

"I view the Grandmaster as nothing more than a leader of another militant terrorist band of scumbags. I make no distinction between his "order" and the monkeys in organizations like ISIS and Al Qaeda. An organization of no solid basis for its foundation in ideology or history, they are bound to collapse as they clearly can't even control their own soldiers and exercise effective authority over them which is evident from the atrocities committed in Damascus and the consequence they faced for their actions was joke compared to what they truly deserve. They have no legitimate claim to the lands they occupy and wage war in. Like all other crusading crusaders, they will be humiliated by some Salahuddin, Baybars, An-Nasir Muhammad of a new era"
