Monkey 4737 stepped on a lego, started hopping and holding his foot in pain, which resulted in him tripping over his wife's housecat, which caused him to fall off the 40-story high balcony he was on.

Monkey 4736 was hollowed out.

People tend to assume that Entrance of the Gladiators by Julius Fučík is what that ever so famous circus clown theme is. And in a way, it is. Nobody would ever argue with you on this fact.

However, if you want to be an unlikable, pedantic jerk, the song actually known to be circus music would be a version composed for American woodwind bands (and later transcribed for fairground organs) titled Thunder and Blazes, published by Louis-Philippe Laurendeau.

Of course, this information is of absolutely no consequence to anyone.

Monkey 4742 was possessed by a Pah-wraith, and then killed the host body to make a point.

4731 learned who Joe was and went out to try and expose Joe, CEO of Gay Frogs inc., to the world. He hanged himself with defensive wounds before the word could get out.

4730 was Joe's bodyguard. He was injured in a raid by [REDACTED] and had to be put down. Some say Joe himself did it.

4722 died in a valiant attempt to correct the numbering of the monkeys (seriously, read back, y'all). Unfortunately, it died in a strange incident that shall never be adequately explained involving noodles.

Jebslund is a nation of kerbals ruled by Emperor Jebediah Kerman. We reject tyranny, believing that rights should be protected, though we also believe said rights end where the rights of others begin.

Shockingly, we do use NS stats, with the exception of lifespan.

4720 tested the theory that the pen was mightier than the sword against 4719. 4720 died of severe bleeding related to cuts from the sword, while 4719 died from exposure to poisonous pen ink.

No, I did both 4720 and 4719.

4717 burned alive along with the above two monkeys, who were trying to figure out whatever the hell was going on.

Then died of unrelated natural causes.
