I'd like it for the Halo-themed cities and technology and stuff, but too bad foreigners aren't allowed to have a national ID there. u.u

No, there's not.

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

That policy is accidental and non-canon. Check my signature if unsure.

Eh, there are much worse places to live. I mean, they seem quite a decent place, so sure.

THE PEOPLE ARE ETERNAL

" We will not bow to your dictation. We are free. We bled to be free. Who are you to tell us what we may and may not do? We stopped being your slaves an era ago. "

South Reinkalistan is a massive, ecologically-diverse nation notable for its roving student militias and widespread hatred for the elderly. In the midst of a room-temperature cultural revolution that's lost its momentum, the Party carefully plans its next move. As the brittle bones of fragile empires begin to crack beneath their own weight, history's symphony reaches crescendo pitch. The future is all but certain.

No, I find that they're too much on the authoritarian side for me personally, and in all honesty I don't approve of absolute monarchies, nor do I like the idea of having my freedom constrained by traditions and/or religion, or experiencing any sort of pressure to become tradional and/or religious. Hopefully South Reinkalistan can at least reach the goal of becoming more democratic very soon, as stated in the factbook. (Even though that would be a great improvement, I'm still pretty sure I'd much rather live somewhere else).

A neutral intergalactic alliance aiming to protect its own peace and liberty, NOT an empire!

I only use NS Stats very loosely - I mainly use factbooks - TG's welcome
