I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

"A Summer Night" - Lustre

Dat atmosphere.

Are these "human rights" in the room with us right now?

Never be surprised with what some of us may know in here. It's amazing how many barely known bands get attention here and are common names for me to see on a regular basis. Ones that I can't even find on YouTube.

Why?-These Hands

Yeah, I was just suprised because Atari Teenage Riot seemsto be the only digital hardcore band that more than 12 people have heard of. Anyhow,
