Windigo's Diary

Opinion on "The Fate"

It seems, that the Valentinians, and Rapture are once again on the warpath... Which has apparently happened before already, if SCPS reports are correct. In the end, nothing will probably come out of it, and both sides will just exchange with insults, and even if war does break out, I am more than sure that they will not finish it before Rapture has a change of heart, and another edgelord leader changes Mercer's place. What surprises me is that Valentinians even tried to give Rapture the olive branch, and an attempt of dialogue, and not turn straight to fash bashing machine, as Mercer is basically an one. You don't discuss with fascists, you destroy them. Not even little ones should be spared, as it is a misconception, that only adults can be evil.

I know, that they are different from those stereotypical pacifists, but when it comes to dealing with evil, any degree of pacifism is harmful, as only brute force can destroy brutes.

As for Fate herself... There is something unnatural looking, and it is not even the height, but rather that bright armor, along with coat. In real life, things often don't look that pretty. I also have read a bit about her travels, and it currently seems, that she is in the 40s, or Pearl Harbor, to be more specific. Well, I didn't know, how you ended up there, but I would recommend you to abandon that timeline as fast as possible. Also, she seems to have a pretty weird self-awareness about this so called "fourth

Regarding Major Windigo of the UDU,

Democratic Partisans? Still roaming the Great North? By the Lord do they have our support. But I'm afraid our insurgent in shining armour won't last much longer. Big names in partisan groups don't tend to last long, and if the Silver Commonwealth has any sense, they'd chop the charismatic head of the snake clean off.

My message, with blessings to Monsieur Windigo, know your limits. You may be young, but the revolution isn't, and someday willpower alone won't suffice for the Partisans; you need friends in high places, higher than you.

~ Premier of New Québec, Reverend Cédric Lésage.

Alexandria's profile was nearly impossible to read with the text blending into her face, which I found to be really annoying and would recommend removing the photos and keeping only one and one that hasn't have text written on it. Also, based on the information, I found nothing remarkable about her rule, it was just a life biography and not a political explaining her policies to improve her Britannia. Therefore, I can only remain neutral and recommend her writers to provide intel on what she has done since becoming the Queen of the UK.

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

After repeated failures to get somebody else instead, I'll have to do it again: Alex may be proud of himself to be around 200 years old but the youngling should take into consideration of his millennia year old elders. Other than that, his steadfastness to contain both Russia and China is either a good thing or mostly an inherently super cruddy plan, and usually, I don't expect any good results coming from leaders of all lands trying to contain two superpowers and expect their plans is going accordingly. If anything, I don't believe Alex is not going to reach 300 years of age once the either two countries go ballistic.

I... find it difficult to discern this man's intent. In his methodology, he appears to be simply another tinpot dictator. Scum, of the lowest order. And yet I honestly cannot decide - is he merely a paranoid coward, leveraging circumstances to maintain his pathetic grip on power for just a few years longer? Or could he perhaps be a true, dyed-in-the-wool madman? An utter lunatic, misinterpreting the progression of a meaningless system at the expense of his people as indicative of some self-construed "glory" by which his nation may gain something tangible? To grind the lives of those beneath him away, sacrifice all that is not his to sacrifice in the pursuit of pointless, hollow pseudo-progress... whichever the case may be, he is worthy of naught beyond contempt. He will fall - if not to assassination or some external foe, then simply to the upsurge of his people. And when he does, all he has built will wither and rot. He will have achieved nothing, for he is nothing, save an utterly pitiful excuse for a ruling figure. In his own eyes, a paragon of strength, no doubt - but any such strength amounts to little beyond ephemeral, pitiful self-aggrandization.

OFFICE OF THE PREMIER

Regarding Her Most Augustness, Artoria the Just,

Mademoiselle Alexandria has truly recaptured the glories of the British Empire and the subjugation of man before it. As no longer Anglos but as Romans along the Anglican Isles, The Albion Empire under Artoria the Just has both prospered and shaken it's people.

Fluent in French, and a rejector of Pagan ritual, I cannot say I am displeased with our new Romanique Anglos. The night is young but so is her leadership. I await to see how the old Empire adapts to new methods of old ways, as conservative imperialism never dies.

Republic of Confederate American States and Syndicates
No, it is not the Confederate States of America. No, it's not the South either. SU stands for 'States and Unions'. The right acronym is RCAS. Please read the Factbook.
