Their leader is a medically diagnosable sociopath. Manipulative, sadistic, ruthless, and most importantly, showing all of that from a young age.

AN: For whatever reason, Poles are the biggest ethnic group on Mars.

They got their name from a British bastardized form of a Hakka insult.

Lumière du Pacifique (1965)

- Set in the world of TNO in the backdrop of an Axis victory, Lazarie is a former Vichy French protectorate-turned Imperial Japanese collaborationist state in the southern Pacific.
- A kingdom and an odd Francophone among the Co-Prosperity Sphere; it attempts to do its best to maintain its autonomy and quasi-democracy from the empire's hands. Ruled by an Orleanist branch in this Pacific island and the Japanese garrison stands on guard for any "OFN incursion".

The State of Lazarie, formerly known as the French Pacific Union, is an autonomous imperial protectorate of the Japanese Empire formed in the aftermath of World War II

The current Prime Minister of Lazarie, a late-middleaged average Joe with a not-so-tall stature and a not-so-bright health, is also the Vice Admiral of the country and its Minister of Fishing. They call their density 'tighthood'. Which sounds vaguely inappropriate.

While William the Bastard never fully conquered England (Danelaw), the effects of his attempted conquest can still be seen today. In the South of Danelaw, there are both nobles and self-made wealthy men and woman with Frankish origin, especially in Lunden. This means that, even in a timeline where the Danes win and conquer England, the South is still filled with petty jackasses. jk, pls no sue.

AN: The state which I presume is the Jamesian Texas is called 'Pecos', presumably after the Pecos River. If Pecos is the Texas stand-in, I honestly don't like it that much. It be like if America was named 'Mississippi'. The Brazos River Valley, alternatively, does have the majority of Texan cities within or near it, so that would make a better name imo (though even that one has it's flaws). Buuuut, enough rambling, you do you pal.

The Wexan military consists largely of peasant levies armed with iron pikes, and is, shall we say, moderately sized, even for the time. Not very surprising, given the technology available to them and their population dynamics. They also have units called "cowboys", who I presume are just horsemen spewing yeehaw-noises at every opportunity. However, where they shine is in their command ability, their commanders even being seconded to other nations- for a price.

That's just the Alechi. And everyone else thinks they're fucking weirdos for doing it. Their cultural reason for doing it, too, is largely that it looks more badass. Think about it- would Rambo have been as cool if he ran into battle in sensible camouflage and full-body armor?

I think not.

(Also, if you look at the guy in the upper part of the picture, he's got a big-ass cloak that technically provides some protection while still keeping to his oath, and most of the Uncovered carry about massive shields like the fellow in the bottom as well. Armor isn't exactly common in the ancient world, so they really only have moderately less protection than their fellows.)

English is, redundantly, an Indo-European language that branched from Germanic. However it has its own derivations Old English in the Southeast has much more French/Breton and Romance influences whereas New English has a lot more Old Norse influence, bought in by the Danes.

This nation is experiencing what we in the biz call a "Massive Fucking Retcon". As such, we have clashing elements such as the Sun Goddess being a literal goddess worshiped by the native Tohorinese and the Goddess being a geneticist. I can't wait for the retcon to be over and see what next great thing LP makes.

Their religion believes in a mother-deity that lives in the sky. Many natural phenomena such as clouds and winds are, in fact, messages of the mother-deity and are her children. The clouds' shapes bring omens and winds are basically her hands, carrying up souls, etc. It's an awesome religion concept.

Looks like their war of independence was led by George Irving, which, I guess, is a tie-in with Washington Irving, an American short-story writer.

Reading their Overview would indicate that they still have some resemblance of sense, in a rather not-too-negative kind of way, but the stuff that they have been talking about are quite the "We live in a society" thing, or it was just that society in their world has crumbled and people are left to their own devices.

I kindaaaa like and want to live there for a few days, not going to lie. Not in the apocalyptic setting, just the feeling of a few people left on Earth.

At the very least, I hope I interpreted that correctly.
