A shift of attention brings us back to T84635.

Man #7659 works as a mechanic on Lysia's largest spaceport, life wasn't easy for him as he is only paid a meager amount of currency, regardless of how hard or long he worked his ass off repairing various spacecraft.

But fortunately, he gets out of it, and gets back to work in his shop.

A timeline recorection reverses the events shown in the doublepost. Instead of crushing #7659, the now sentient machine becomes #7659's new companion, he often goes to do repairs with the machine lending a helping hand each time.

Another timeline recorection prevents this from happening.

The doubleposter is blackmailed to stop doing his thing by an anonymous sender.

We shift our attention to not a man, but a living, wandering cloud of unidentified matter, the remnant of a living being, possibly a sentient one even.

The cloud of matter can shift densities, colours and radiance, it is easily mistaken for a nebula by humanity, but it's ever-changing nature is something of astonishing beauty

The timeline fracture is so intense we have to use a video of a dancing deer as a simulation data.

New dancing deer.

Z-Day and N-Day are not canon.

News: Fishe leaves the WA, the Cannibalism Act and the Forced Blood Sport Eradication Act are no longer in effect for Fishelle.

Dancing Deer, while at the aforementioned discothèque, comes across the Swaying Stag, and the both of them get to know each other.

When Swaying Stag says he prefers Kraftwerk to ABBA, Dancing deer felt his honor was insulted and slapped him with a bedazzled white glove. He then challenges Swaying Stag to a dance-off of death.
