Knight-General of All Hyrule, Alcalph

"This... Ah, give me a moment to get this pronunciation correct, if you will. (Ahent) Inogo Estima, correct?"

By any means, let us move on from the struggle of pronouncing these foreign names. I will attempt to be brief on my thoughts of this man and his leadership over the country. To begin, may I say that to hand out liberties and power for the average citizen should always be considered... No, always would lead to instability, perhaps even turmoil. The average man or woman does not know how to manage a state, have the true cognitive power to make the best decisions for an entire society, hell even for local stability and the such. The Old Guard of Hyrule's ineptitude for realizing this, for sitting content within the walls of Hyrule Castle Town whilst the other settlements of the realm, no less the... Unreliable Princedom of the Zoras and that Goron brotherhood truly left this realm weak for the Twili to simply seize. I believe that if there was more authority, more of a true presence of the Hylian Guard across the entire country, the invasion of the Twilight could at the very least be stalled whilst the Princessdom prepared for the scenario at hand.

I propose a question to you, Inogo... Should a force like the Twilight ever decide to march upon your realm and attempt their coup, would your disunified, lax lands, people and military truly be able to stop it?

Nevertheless, let me continue. It is good to see that you have been blessed by your deities with powers the commoners would not have, it is surely a good indicator that you are the right person to rule by the confirmation of the divines. Your policies of the right of the peoples, sufferage and anti-corruption is very much worthy of laud, but I hope that your pursuit for true democracy shall not lead to a weakness that can be exploited, as discussed above...

Overall, I respect Inogo Estima for who he is, however I would not be all that surprised if his pursuits leads to the weakening of the state's national security, something that could be exploited by foreign intervention.

I would suggest that you rethink your ideas of the rule of the people, as that can indeed bring instability as... Naturally, many people are simply too dull to be trusted, however I am not sure if you will... Either way, should we ever meet I would happily talk with oneself, and perhaps you can show me your skill of riding on the saddle? If it compares at all to the Hero of Courage, then I would certainly be impressed."

BN, do Knight-General Alcalph (Link is in my sig.)

The Princessdom of Hyrule. A fanfiction based on the Legend of Zelda :: Twilight Princess that takes place half a decade after the conclusion of the game. A new caste of Hyruleans, no less the newly built army resent the old Guard and Princess-Sovereign Zelda for the surrender of the realm to the Twilight and the weakness of Hyrule from invasion...

Meanwhile, the Zora worry greatly about the militarization of Hyrule, and the Goron less so due to the Economic stranglehold of the Rupee of which they have as leverage.

Never again shall Hyrule fall, and never again shall we sully the name of Hylia under our weakness!

Hyrule: "His Majesty is an interesting figure to me. I have heard stories of the knight-errants and holy crusaders of old, and while technically he is neither, I can still respect him. His land was nearly destroyed, hell - possibly his world by those Twili peoples, and yet, he did not run or hide. He fought, like anyone with the strength to do so should. I would say that his past and mystique is a bit shady, but that would be hypocritical of me. And hey, why should I care about someone's past if they are so noble. They fought when many others wouldn't or couldn't, and that is certainly worthy of my respect and those of others. And the fact that, even after years in the heat of battle, he is still trying to fight for his realm, his people - well, I don't think I need to repeat myself. Regardless, I can forgive and forget the few transgressions you do have simply because your heart and mind are in the right place. Perhaps you are brutal and ruthless, but such qualities are not inherently bad. Perhaps your shady past may be hiding something more sinister - maybe - but I'd say that all is forgiven after what you have done. May you and your men keep marching on, regardless of whatever storm comes your way. "

You spit in his face and slander his name by claiming it as your own. You bring shame to your people, your family, and insult the LORD by doing such a thing. You are no King of the Basedistani, you are the whore of Babylon the bible warned the world about. You may run free now, but the LORD shall strike you down one day or another. May God have mercy on the poor souls of the East Welsh, because he won't have any for you. Sir, I can surely state, that if I could choose a person I'd like my child to look up to, I'd definitely choose you. Your devotion to th ways of life promoted in the Christianity and your selflessness easily make you one of the most honorable people I've ever met. Moreover than that, while Glyton and Christianity differ on some minor matters, all in all we admit that we essentially praise and pray to the same Lord, and as such, I laud your deeds in promoting the word of the Christ. Keep up the good work!

I'd also like to give a few words addressing the disagreements we have in political and economical questions- I do believe that, sometimes, the values of the true Faith have to be protected even by violent means, and that, in order to truly unsure the fulfillment of His will, more power has to be used. Sure, some may brag about violation of their "civilian freedoms", but what are these novice ideas of humanism and liberalism, compared to multiple millennia-old laws, given to us by nothing, but Himself...

"Again, I am gonna have to share my opinion on her. I thought, someone other would, but fate is such a... Alright, here is the statement - She clearly wants to skewer my heart on an epee in a duel. Because her ideas of ideal society strongly contradict the ideology of Sky Reavers. She wants a boring, socially conservative state, which tampers alot with economy. We want a socially libertarian place, where booze, sex and weed are everywhere, where casinos and brothels are always open and where tourists can unwind in our awesomized resorts! And our ideas of economy involve more free market, so it's a centrist and mixed. Syndicalist co-ops, private businesses and state ones compete with eachother, while through diplomacy, we establish more trade routes, and enrich ourselves. Authoritarian socialism will not work in our resort, this is what we have established.

She can yell all she wants, she can kill me, kill council, but we ain't gonna change. Our people have decided to live like this since the revolution. But hey... misguided as she is, she still does help her people to live and prosper. Ain't so bad, but... relations are cold, so ya' can put some beer in them and cool it."-Shawn Bjornson

However, I shall express my opinion on the Queen independent of my opinion of the monarchy as a whole.

Alexandra was given the duty of being the Head of State of one of Europe's and the world's most powerful and influential countries at such a young age, but she managed to take over and fulfill her duties with relative efficiency and dignity. Well gee-whiz, punishments can serve as examples to diminish undesired behavior, but there are some misdemeanors that can be fixed or reversed. But hey, your criteria is your business. It's probably gonna be a pain to monitor your people though; I take it you're not keen on radio like your human cousins.

Also...what's up with the costume, Blondie? Ya forgot where your boobs are and needed a visual reminder?"

"Well look at this shit! Someone who's finally got some fire in 'em to say shit the way's meant to be! No forced kindness, no prudence or whatever that shit is - just straight facts and no fucks held back - that's nice if you ask me, we a dyin' breed of people amongst these uptight jackasses who think they have to be polite or some stupid shit jus' 'cause they're at the top of the food chain, well fuck that! An' Nova and I 'ere understand that concept real well, even if they be bigger fish out in the multiversal pond, we don't give no fucks and we'll talk in whichever tone and level of condescendence we want! And if she can outsass Uncle Sam - a thing that Sing never has let me try - and get away with it? More power to her. We be siblings in sass, Nova. Don'tcha forget that shit!"

dislike free market policies, this won't stop me from lauding the way you've changed your ways of life from hedonism to the right things. Truly a marvelous story! And your charity campaigns- very well done! Keep up the good work, pal!

The Queen is certainly a character of paradoxes. She is known to be homophobic, and yet was caught having a controversial relationship with another woman. I do like her will to be outspoken about issues such as corruption, and I also admire her fearlessness and brave nature towards the armed forces, but she does need to be more accepting of all people, and war should always be the last resort to solving any issue.
