"I admire someone who can take power in their own hands, and use it for selfless purposes... but this man is nowhere near the latter. He has presumably committed every deadly sin, has forsaken the image of our Lord by making himself a false idol, willing to waste away his own people for whatever sadistic reason, and despite the socialist initiative, this Juche is no more than an excuse for purposeful oppression. Egypt was punished for the selfish tyranny of Ramses in defiance of Him; the same will eventually happen upon his empire. It is inevitable; and it's not like we're threatening him. It'll happen soon, no matter how powerful he thinks he is, he is not immune to the judgement of God."

~Grandmaster Baldassar Cagliares

IC: the Order of Mare Nostrum, but are also known as the Knights of Mare Nostrum or simply Mare Nostrum.

Anthem: Ave Regina Caelorum

The Knights of Mare Nostrum are an order formed in 1189 centered around islands in the Mediterranean after the Knights Hospitaller and Templar merged, along with the integration of other knightly orders, serving as a militarized Papal State which utilises what is essentially hyper-militaristic canon law.

being "satanic". He is indeed a weird person, I can already tell that. Anyways, let's not waste further time, and sink in his bio, ignoring his petty family along the way.

So he was born in a family, and his father was a grandmaster too - no surprise that he was trained in politics and mathematics from very early age. Although, I have to say that he perhaps goes a bit further even than me when it comes to religion - yes, we think, that conquering the world is a mission given by god, but not all actions of the state or regions are a will of god, but rather of human, or machine calculations. At least he can speak more than a single language, so I will give him that. And at least he didn't hate freemasons like a normie right-winger would, but cooperated with them instead - their services can even be quite useful, ya know. And 163 close quarter kills? Well, you indeed are a beast, when it comes to fighting.

His pro and anti list, however... Yes, he supports Christianity, theocracy, monastic orders, nationalism, monarchism, and so on - this combo is not too surprising, and in fact I kinda like all of those things, asides from monarchism, of course. However, it is also surprising to see him being pro-globalism and interventionism - usually the type of people who are similar to him are deluded isolationists or non-interventionists, thinking that they will manage to maintain that position forever. Tbh, at last he is someone I could relate to in terms of views - the globalist types are usually petty lite progressives or liberals. However, him being against socialism and heathenry is kind of disappointing - if you take away the socialism's anti-religious aspects, it can pretty well fit with Christian theology. I also assume, that he would want to purge the heathens - I don't like them too, but if heathenry is part of the regional culture, then I have no rights to erase it, as long as they don't try to push that sh*t to faithful Christian regions. Him being anti-Islam is also a bit weird - we all have descended from the same branch.

Overall I am not too negative on him, I just find some of his quirks and opinions... pretty eccentric, and archaic.

Regards,

"I remember, how I fought the knights of his order, during their crusade against Skyhooked... It happened before I became the Overboss. I was just a tough dude with a gun and warclub. We defended Azure Beaches Five Stars resort, first we shot at them... then the melee happened. I killed a few but got wounded severely, I still have the scar on my left arm and a scar on my face, and I bear them with pride.

And I will ride on my motorcycle to battle again, should this fanatic get any ideas about imposing his religion on Skyhooked, so I can personally slay this genocidal sadist in battle and then drink from his skull on the feast! And if I die... I will remember this worthy foe in the halls of Valhalla.

Now, if ya' mind, I am gonna commit some deadly sins just to piss him off."-

"Tom? That AI, that went all loco about controlling everything he sees? Well, isn't he a nice electronic dude? With a philosophy that contradicts our's in so many ways. I guess, we won't be forging an alliance with him anytime soon. After all, he wants to cease all travel and cultural exchange, which is a big no-no for us, and he also wants to impose byzantine bureaucracy on all the economy and make it clogged, all while he is the leader of new world order. I am not so sure if his regime will last. After all, nationalists tend to pull the blanket on themselves, and once this AI encounters a critical sort of bug... his empire collapses just like the USSR. But who knows... this AI possesses high calculating capabilities, and might have thought through many variants and prepared some checks and balances in case of this, in case of full scale civil war, or in case of him going all hippy because of a bug or hack. And other occurrences, I may not even imagine."-Shawn Bjornson

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

I can always admire a man like him, even if he carries that foul Muhamadian title of Sultan despite being a pagan, who is much more preferable to any of those disgusting heretics. I do question his honor, despite his lovely weapon of choice, for he apparently called royal guards on his two brothers... was a good old-fashioned duel not in question? Yes, he was 16, but my son Giomo is 17 and he already has a dozen duels under his belt from the age of fifteen. You'd expect rapscallions his age to be settling their differences with their fists, like animals... but I'm straining too far. I admire the Sultan, and perhaps we could work out a trade. Maybe my Nostrumium could bring their olden soldiers back to life, without the use of a coward's firearm?"

The Knights of Mare Nostrum are an order formed in 1189 centered around islands in the Mediterranean after the Knights Hospitaller and Templar merged, along with the integration of other knightly orders, serving as a militarized Papal State which utilises what is essentially hyper-militaristic canon law.
