Even though I don't use NSG anymore, I hope one of those failed trolls who pathetically attempts to troll and 'trigger' NSG shows up.

You know the ones I'm talking about, right? The ones where 99% of NSG users will either just ignore completely, report and move on, or just make fun of them for blatantly trying (and failing) to troll but they continue to insist that they're successfully triggering the 'autistic libt*rds on this forum'.

Basically every military related F7 forum is doomed to become a power wank.

Come out, the WA has passed a resolution. Actions will be taken to bring your nation into compliance.

Was reading the thread and came upon this.

This is only a problem if the rest of political and social history follows what happened OTL.

Technically there are European countries today that still have overseas territory or influence in their former colonies.

Why would you use the ripple effect, if you're going to be a thief just copy it outright instead of making it worse in the process.

Why even make a big deal over this?

Not that stealing someone's flag doesn't matter, but like Frisemark can literally just report the nation for stealing the flag and a mod will delete the stolen flag.

I already TG'd him about it. No need to have a shitstorm guys, just laugh in disbelief and move on. If he doesn't take the flag down, I'll just make a mod post.

Thanks.

I don't think it's a big issue personally, I just think it's kinda sad on the new guys part.

If they're willing to actually stick to the site I'm willing to like, lend them a hand in making a flag, they don't seem offensive either from my interactions.

It pains me whenever I get a shitty response in a military thread, especially when I put in so much effort and then bam. "lol we bomb you" or something that essentially means that.

I get why it happens, but it can be a bum kill.

I think ripples effects can be fine, even good for hiding defects on flags like the G-Clave America flag I first had, but some flags suffer for it, and with non-box flags.

Yeah, like all the Military F7 threads are "x super weapon/super army smashes AN, total victory, HAHA they are so weak". Like sure, it MIGHT follow their factbook, but especially on the reaction(where someone else had commented about it, which is what spurred me to say such), the point isn't about who wins, it is about the IC perspective of those fighting. If you have a swarm, instead of saying "swarm beats them hahaha", maybe show the drones as they are killed, after all numbers strategies are casualty intensive.

Honestly(I never used NSG, why would I debate on a BBC forum lmao), most political debates will, if ANYONE is convinced, only convinced people already neutral, which likely isn't the two main people arguing. So I just view them as pointless.
