You mean manslaughter? If it is due to an accident, the defendant will be sentenced to three years of community probation. If it is due to self-defence, the defendant will be sentenced to five years of community probation. Sentences can be reduced due to circumstances such as good behaviour etc.

Laka does not differentiate between different kinds of murder, however, we do have a concept of "murder by criminal negligence" the only difference in the way it's treated other than willing murder is that death penalty can only be applied after repeated offense.

VERY STRICT warning and possibly sending the boy to a special school.
They can also do the same with the girl.

The official lied in the official report to the top.

Immedately removed from office. Depending on the gravity of the said lie, it can range from imprisonment, to death.

Depends on the situation. If the it was seen as unrequired it would be classified as a waste of resources leading to demotion or removal from the armed forces. Other than that it is acceptable.

How dare you insinuate that the GLORIOUS CLOWNVANIA even has fraudsters in the first place. For such a crime you will have your arms removed, if it's a Tuesday you get bonus leg removal. You will then spend your life as a chair for one of my incredible military officials. Your family will be all sent into the mines. Especially grandma. Any remaining associates you have will be surgically attached together into one person and deported to a random location.

How does your nation punish the crime of CRITICISING DEAR LEADER?
