Whatever 1001001 is in binary, unless it's not between 1 and 66, in which case 42.

I'll show ya. This is why I shoved all bands that weren't moved to Last.fm when I created the account and imported the play counters. Hence those bands are "banned" from regular listening on WMP until I've got scrobbles right. Now, all those bands are in the groups of 10, 55 means fifth band in fifth group, which is ... no wait, Rush would be 45

55 would be Tarot and 42 would be Rainbow. Oh well, already said Rush marathon is next so let it be.

I don't think I'll last until 6 AM today like I did yesterday....My sister and I finished turning over our first garden today and I actually feel worn out this time. Doesn't help we probably walked at least 2 miles...

And damn it, the Internet is being bogged down, which is making quickly skipping through decent albums slow...

OMWSCN! I just realized 73 is close to my new favorite number:
http://feldfrei.wordpress.com/2010/12/1 ... st-number/

Both 1001001 and 2112, plus the year of Rush's debut. If any of the three of them die at age 73 with a kid aged 37, it will be meant to be.

Internet being slow gives me more reason to call it a day early ☐

Mostly because it obstructs my music clearing out process, not so much the browser itself

And ew, my dad just tested the speed and it's back to our old speed for some reason, the one that is 4X slower.
