I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Okay, a bit out of my comfort zone here, but I think I can handle it.

This one's pretty cool. I like it.

That is one of the most bizarre and most experimental pop/ambient albums I have ever heard, but it was also my Album of the Year 2013. Great album.

Definitely seems like something I could see being out of your comfort zone, though.

Certainly what I'm getting. Bizarre, experimental, all of the above. But if my best friend can handle hours on end of minecraft and electronica, I can take studying to this.

They're from Seattle, too, so they're a pretty local band.

And I don't think you've seen weird yet I have some pretty weird band names...Lets see...Holy Fuck, Fuck Buttons, And So I Watch You From Afar, for a few examples...

Edit: Master Musicians of Bukkake-Eaglewolf
