human smuggling, as in the act of "facilitating or attempting to facilitate the illegal entry of a person or persons across America's borders in violation to one or more countries' laws, either clandestinely or through deception" is punished with up to 10 years in prison. Human trafficking as in "the trade of humans for the purpose of forced labour, sexual slavery, or commercial sexual exploitation." is punished with 30 years to life in prison. Other actions taken during the course of the trafficking (and the reason for which trafficking is happening), how old the victims are, etc. may increase that and add some fines to the punishment.
