All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Not going to do them all tonight (It is light out but it might as well be tonight for me because I haven't slept yet), but going to go through the 2 EP's by Olafur Arnalds NOT on Spotify, so they won't scrobble or anything. Could do the same with Johann Johannsson but he has a TON of stuff from what I saw so I don't really feel the need to right now. Olafur Arnalds appears to of done an insane amount of work just in the last few years.
