A heavily Touhou-inspired nation. I'd rather not use NS Stats if it can be avoided.

What happens when you cross anime powers and overpowered leaders with furies, all written by a bored Homestuck fan with too much time? Well, you get Rumei. A multiethnic, FT republic with both might and magic that let it conquer the entire Orion Arm.

Leo Hesonian is a weak ruler in many respects. Despite knowing that he could invade independent systems successfully, he chooses not to take advantage of that, instead becoming bogged down in moralism. Another weakness is the dependence on tradition. Eotensi tradition practiced by the Emperor is Basking, which involves a shedding of all responsibility. The inefficiency of this requires little explanation. Traditions are to be updated with new knowledge, not retained for their own sake.

Is our fundamental purpose to be the missing link on the evolutionary stepping stone between 'organics' and computing? Or are these Root Processors simply an abomination to humankind, a perverse manifestation of the dreams in which humanity has striven to for Godhood? I am inclined to think the latter. The arysch race did not evolve to become a glorified puzzle-solver shot over infinite space on some tiny airwaves. Organics exist to rule in the flesh. I am impressed with these processors as a whole, but as a leader? As a nation? I cannot recognise them as such."

Machines, especially thinking machines are things I've never liked or never understood. Perhaps there's a reason for this that I can't quite comprehend, but The Paramount is another one of the reasons why I hate thinking machines. Perhaps the old Octavians should have kept their machines and codes more private and this might not of happened, but they failed it seems and they are gone. Now being forced into a mechanical husk and The Paramount is the main reason for that, but I do find some of his policies and authoritarian nature familiar to my known. But I do fear it's intentions with wanting to make everything leaving just another one of its machines, but I will probably be but another footnote in the history books before that becomes a fear realized." -Matthieu XV

OFFICE OF THE PREMIER

Regarding High Marshal Vasilias Lathi, of the Ministry of War.

Tabernac. Through no fault of my own, I appear to have begun bleeding from my wrists.

"Mercy", good Marshal Lathi, is not "treason". Mercy is not a "sign of doubt". Mercy is an ultimate victory. Mercy is a victory for the righteous and Holy. Mercy is the complete dissolution of an enemy. To be in a position where one could dictate the terms of mercy is an uncontestable victory of total regard. A Minister of War should know that. The purpose of war is victory. Your entire life is dedicated to an endless machine-grind by a machine-nation for a hollowed victory that will never come without mercy, which will never arrive to the Khoronzonite.

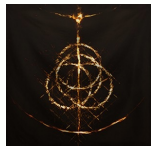

The Ministry of War must be destroyed. The endless cycle of merciless slaughter without purpose must cease. Endless war isn't glory. Endless war is glorious, and the Khoronzonite will never see a true victory because of it.

(Ahh, no. It's not that I'm bored of any aspect of your nation or it's characters, I just simply don't quite know how to go about our interactions, it's harder to go off slim interactions due to the new leader new opinion. Perhaps next time I'll pick another to character but I will admit made this post really quick so it's quality kinda fell off. but I'll rework it due to it's offense it has given you.

"I'm vary neutral towards the Reverend.
I've been watching over this nation, and I must say it baffles me.

Oni has stated relations with this nation are negative. Though all I recall are agitated barking towards one another because there was the constant pressing of petty insults.
Furthermore throwing lowblows at him about his past, which if I recall will always strike retaliation within the former king of corpses.

I want to like you, and your nation. But I'm vary unsure at this moment. Like a game of tug of war I'm not sure if I dislike you due to our past or choose to like you due to your culture in which I have grown some curiosities.

As for your veivs of "mercy". Mercy is nothing more than humility towards your opponents. Or foolishness for the lighthearted.
Domination to where one may not be able to recover, or letting someone gather enough strength to stab you in the back.
Mercy is somthing I'm not one to take, but not all lords follow this.
I look forward to our future interactions, farewell. "-The first king

Opinion on the First King

Well, if one fears to even mention your name or existence due of you being bad omen or appearing in nightmares, you know, that you are doing something wrong. Or right, depending on how you view that. The fact, that no one has managed to pull off a travel to his tomb is quite concerning and telling as well. Either way, it seems, that Mercer really did an oopsie, and if not for his immortality, he would have been split in half. Hey, I didn't like him much anyways, but even without dying that experience probably was terrible for him.

I might not know in details, who those beasts are, but they sound like untapped weapon potential, judging from what info I received. And, he protected Lowblood from being nuked or prevented anyone from escaping with those dark clouds? Well, that's an impressive feat. I think, that he has everything to defeat Rapture, even if that fight will be long.

At first I was worried, if the first king was not too centrist, but then I realized, that breaking out of the Rapture's facility, and rallying your people against a foreign enemy already requires more extreme views and determination. No, you actually have opinions, and are ready to fight for what seems right to you. However, I am worried, if your future successor will embrace centrist degeneracy - those status quo supporters are the obstacle of true progress, and only benefit those in power structures by calming down progressives. Look up to UPO, not slogan chanters.

In the end, I am going to stay in spectator mode in his conflict between himself, and Rapture. It is not like, that my partisans could provide meaningful help to either side, even if the magic has appeared in our world again, as SC's military is still exploring magitek's opportunities.
