Non-Parliamentary: Liberal Democratic Initiative. Iirc I put Small Business Party before, but I didn't realise they were pro-tariffs.

BN: If you choose a party with factions (i.e. Liberal, SDP, or National), perhaps also say what faction you would most align with/vote for.

I just changed the party's ideology (since decentralization is complicated in a federal state).

Normally I'd be for the Green Party but this particular green party doesn't seem to understand that nuclear power is actually the most environmentally sustainable of all forms. I support the Communist Party of Cesko-Slovenskya but why they are in a coalition with the center-right rather than the center-left is also beyond me.

My nation - which is pretty much just a unified Korea with some extra territory - represents my real views, as does pretty much anything I say on the forums. NS stats only broadly representative. Feel free to call me Q&K, Quartia, or any other nickname.

I don't love any of them. Probably the Libertarian Party, but I'm skeptical of their drug and death penalty positions. Quartia and Karafuto politics look pretty entrenched, they don't seem to have much of a center.

They aren't in a coalition with the centre-right. The way parliamentary politics works is that all parties who are not in the government are in the "opposition", regardless of whether their views align. For example, the Left Party and the AFD in Germany both are in opposition despite the presence of the centre-left SPD and the centre-right CDU, respectively, in government.

"There doesn't seem to be much political diversity in the Kingdom of Tarvelia; almost every party is just a more or less extreme or moderate version of the one in power. I might have said Labor, as I am a member of Baizou's Labor Party, but then I realized that Tarvelian Labor's stance on civil freedom is rather narrower than mine. I would have to throw my fortunes in with the Radical Party."
—Premier Fukushima Sonoko

"Though I'm a member of Baizou's Marxist Party, I'm not sure I count as a secularist, and yet I, too, see Tarvelia's Radical Party as the only potential political home for me in the kingdom. Though I cannot help but have a chuckle at the Sopti Independence Party. Obtaining their seat by a quirk of Tarvelia's election system reminds me a little of Baizou's own 'quirky' policymaking process."
